Population Pattern Is
ChangingNegro Movement
Causes Decline
In Rural Areas

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Southern Negro's exodus to the big cities in search of better jobs, education and living standards in the 1950's produced the first decline in the nation's rural population in any decade, it was reported Sunday.

A decline of 425,000 in the number of rural Americans in 1950-60 was announced by population Reference Bureau, Inc., a non-profit group of biologists, sociologists and economists. Urban areas gained 28 million persons, the biggest jump in history.

By 1960, the bureau reported, the U.S. population of 179.3 millions was 70 per cent urban. When the first census was taken in 1790, it was only 5 per cent.

The loss in rural population was centered in the south, the bureau said. The west, northeast and north central states grew in rural population.

This, the bureau said, was largely the result of the southern Negro's shift to southern and northern cities and to the west. Fourteen per cent (1,457,000 persons) of the nation's non-white population left the south in the 1950's.

In that decade, the bureau said, the nation's non-white population rose 26.8 per cent, while whites increased 17.9 per cent. By 1960, non-whites accounted for 11.2 per cent of the population, of which 10.6 per cent were Negro.

The surge was attributed to the higher birth rate of non-whites and the narrowing death rate between the two.

Other findings by the bureau: —Americans "grew younger" in the 1950's for the first time. Because of the continuing postwar baby boom, the median age of Americans fell from 30.2 to 29.5 years despite the fact that Americans 65 and older doubled the national rate of population growth.

—1960, American women were expected to live until they were 73, six years longer than the men. That year, there were 91 million females and 88 million males, with the number of females growing faster each year.

—Because American women outlive their men and thus acquire more inherited wealth, the bureau repeated its warning the nation was headed toward "gerontocracy," or "rule by a clique of elderly women."

—Fourteen million Americans moved from one state to another, most of them to already heavily populated areas.

—West Virginia lost 7 per cent of her population — the heaviest of any state. The big gainer was Florida, whose population rose 79 per cent.

—One of every four Americans attended school in 1960, compared with one of five in 1950. More had finished grade school, high school and college than ever before.

—In 1960, one of every three American women held jobs. The total labor force of 70 million was nearly one-third higher than in 1940.

—Americans earned more than ever before. In 1959, three of every five American families earned $5,000 a year or more. Ten years earlier, only one of every five earned that much.

Eastern Shore
Couple Found
Shot To Death

EDEN, Md. (AP)—An Eastern Shore logger and his wife were found shot to death in their four-room apartment Sunday by a brother paying a Sunday afternoon call.

The logger, 60-year-old Herman Townsend, was found in a white nightshirt lying face down on the kitchen floor. A woman's sweater was neatly folded under his head.

His 59-year-old wife Louise lay dead in the next room. Her body was found clothed in a housedress on a bed.

Police said both had been shot with a rifle in the lower body; she from the front, he from behind.

Frank Townsend told police he and his wife drove from nearby Parsonsburg to see his brother Herman this afternoon.

Parsonsburg is about 15 miles east of Eden.

Frank said he knocked on the door of his brother's second floor apartment but no one answered.

He said he tried to open the door but something blocked it. He said he squeezed his head through the opening and saw his brother's prone body blocking the door. Another glance revealed his brother's wife.

Maggie, something's wrong here," Frank told his wife, "Herman's dead."

The Townsends then drove to John W. Bromley's house about a mile away. Bromley owns the house.

One suspect, Gregory Powell, 20, of Boulder City, Nev., was captured. An all-points western states bulletin was issued for Jimmy Lee Smith, 32, a Negro, whose last known address was Bakersfield, Calif.

Detective Ian Campbell, 30, of Chatsworth, Calif., was shot to death about two miles southwest of the small community of Mettler, located near Bakersfield. He was married and the father of two children.

"Campbell was ordered out of the car and apparently shot on the spot," said officer Howard Wines of the Bakersfield Sheriff's department.

He was shot once in the face, and four times in the chest area," said Wines.

When Campbell was shot, his companion detective Carl Hettinger escaped. The suspects fired at Hettinger but missed. He ran about three miles to a farmhouse and called sheriff's deputies.

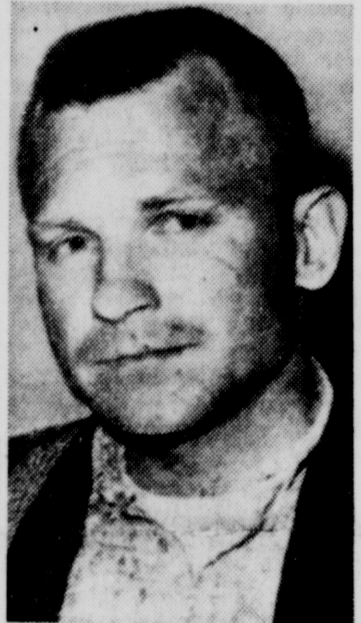

Hettinger told officers he and Campbell stopped the two at Hollywood Boulevard and Gower Street for routine questioning. When they approached the car, one of the men pulled a 45-caliber automatic and ordered the officers to get in the car and drive toward Bakersfield.

Wines said he was immediately undetermined why the suspects stopped near Mettler and ordered Campbell from the car.

Hettinger said the men began talking about California's "little Lindbergh Law" which provides a death penalty for kidnapping. Then they stopped the car and ordered the officers out.

After the shooting, said Wines, Smith sped away in the kidnap car.

The two men split up and Powell was arrested shortly afterwards in another stolen car. Campbell's briefcase, Hettinger's flashlight and an automatic were discovered in Powell's vehicle.

Retired army Maj. Gen. Kim Jai-choon, new director of the junta's reorganized central intelligence agency, announced the smashing of the plot.

DAMASCUS, Syria (UPI)—Thousands of Syrians chanting "Nasser! Nasser!" Sunday greeted their new revolutionary government and a visiting delegation from neighboring Iraq's month-old regime.

The curfew imposed on this armor-ringed city after the military coup Friday was lifted, and crowds welcomed the four-man Iraqi delegation and their own new leaders.

They carried huge pictures of United Arab Republic President Gamal Abdel Nasser and chanted his name as they surged through the streets of the capital. The scene was in noisy contrast to the silence that had hung over Damascus since the bloodless coup.

New Syrian Premier Salah El Bitar proclaimed his pro-Nasser policies after taking power from civilian Premier Khaled El Azm. Unlike the revolutionary regime in Iraq, he did not begin a blood-bath against the fallen government.

The only firing heard here in the past three days has been scattered rifle shots on the city's outskirts. Officials said the new government was hunting down Communists and other anti-Nasser groups.

Azm and many members of the government were believed safe in the Turkish Embassy, downstairs from the premier's apartment in a building he owns. President Nazim El Kudi's house was guarded by revolutionary soldiers, but he was not under arrest.

Ellender Says
Whites Fear
Negro Majority

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D-La., acknowledged Sunday that Negroes are denied voting rights in some parts of Louisiana and Mississippi. But he said this is because whites "are just scared to death" of political domination by Negroes.

Appearing on a taped television interview Ellender was asked if he knows of any Americans "who are denied the right to vote because of race, creed or color."

Ellender replied: "I don't. I don't know of any — except in some areas of Mississippi and a few areas in Louisiana where the Negroes outnumber the whites by about two to one."

"The white people are just scared to death by all the Negroes in those areas where the Negroes are in the majority. If they get the vote, why they'll have all the offices, they'll hold all the offices in those parishes—counties—of course."

The Louisiana senator did not express directly any opinion on the legality or morality of such a situation. But he attacked President Kennedy's new proposals to make it easier for Negroes to vote and said, "It's the states who should determine who should and should not vote."

He described the presidential proposals as "just politics" and predicted Congress will reject them.

Jealous Man
Shotguns Wife

NEW YORK (UPI) — Police said a jealous husband, angered by his wife's reference to "old boy friends," rigged a shotgun to fire when she slid behind the driver's seat of their car but was forced to trigger it by hand when the booby-trap malfunctioned.

The woman was killed instantly Saturday when the shotgun blast ripped through the seat.

Officers said Pasquale Delerose, 27, told them he overheard a telephone conversation between his wife, Gloria, 19, and a girl friend.

His wife terminated the conversation, he said, by saying "I've got to hang up now and call one of my old boy friends."

Delerose, charged Sunday with homicide, decided to place the shotgun device behind the driver's seat of his automobile, police added.

They said he admitted firing it as his teen-age wife was parking the car.

He told police he feared his wife had planned to have him sent to a hospital, but he did not elaborate. He also told them he was afraid she would go back to a former suitor.

19 Dead Reported
In Plant Blast

ARNSBERG, Germany (AP)—The casualty toll in Saturday's explosion at Belecke rose to 19 dead and five critically injured Sunday. The blast, believed caused by a bursting compressed air pipe, destroyed one large factory hall and damaged five others at the Siepmann works, one of Germany's largest drop forges.

At the same time, union leaders at the vast state-run natural gas complex at Lacq, in southwest France, announced the strike they started on Thursday will be continued "indefinitely."

The Lacq installations provided one-half of France's gas supplies last year and the continuation of the strike was certain to make itself felt in factories and domestic supplies.

The biggest protest meeting in the coal fields took place at Merlebach in the heart of Lorraine in eastern France. About 1,000 miners massed to hear union leaders proclaim that the strike will continue and pickets will be strengthened at the pitheads starting Monday.

The reason for the demonstration at Merlebach was to commemorate a 1906 disaster in the French Courrières pit in which 1,101 miners lost their lives.

But the speeches all dealt with the immediate crisis in which the miners are defying a government "collective requisition" order—an order demanding their return to work — issued a week ago.

"In no case can work be resumed under the threat of requisition and before negotiations have been started on guaranteed bases," a motion voted unanimously by the Lorraine miners said.

Score Students
Hospitalized
Following Fire

BELLSPORT, N. Y. (UPI) — More than a score of youngsters, 16 of them in oxygen tents, remained hospitalized Sunday with smoke poisoning sustained in the $500,000 fire at Belpoint High School.

One student, William Allers, 15, remained in critical condition with undetermined internal injuries.

Most of the injured were hurt leaping from second floor windows to escape the blaze Friday which destroyed a wing of the school.

Forty-four persons were admitted to Brookhaven Memorial Hospital in Patchogue, N.Y., and another 100 treated at the scene of the fire at the 900-student high school.

Belpoint is 55 miles from New York City on Long Island's southern shore.

David Hassell, son of the Belpoint fire commissioner, underwent surgery for two broken kneecaps suffered when he jumped from a second-floor window. He was reported in good condition.

His father, E. Floyd Hassell, found the boy lying on the ground after the fire. "Don't worry about me, dad, help the other kids," young Hassell told his father.

It was learned later the youth had left the school before the fire alarm sounded, but went back into the building to rescue others. He then became trapped and was forced to jump from the window.

Classes at the school have been postponed until further notice, officials said.

French OAS
Leader Asks
For AsylumDoubt Expressed
Former Premier
To Be Extradited

MUNICH, Germany (AP) — Bavarian authorities announced Sunday the detention of Georges Bidault, political leader of the French Secret Army Organization underground movement which wants to eliminate President Charles de Gaulle. Bidault promptly asked for asylum in West Germany.

The case of the dapper little former premier and foreign minister of France could complicate relations between Paris and Bonn at a time when De Gaulle and Chancellor Konrad Adenauer are striving to mold enduring friendship between the French and the Germans.

The arrest came six days after strained French-British relations were jolted anew by the British Broadcasting Corp. presentation of a recorded television interview in which Bidault, a furtive visitor to Britain, predicted De Gaulle will be overthrown.

Bavarian Interior Minister Henrich Junker said Bidault, 63, president of the right-wing French Council of National Resistance, was picked up by police at Steinbach, a village on Lake Wörthsee. Junker said he was confined to his house. He was found with two French aides, who were not held.

Junker said the detention was ordered in a German probe into the alleged abduction in Munich on Feb. 25 of French secret army Col. Antoine Argoud, who was mysteriously delivered — bound hand and foot — to French police in Paris the following day.

Without disclosing details, the interior minister said all circumstances of the Argoud case have now been cleared up. This apparently indicated Bavarian authorities have identified the abductors. Bonn sources have predicted serious diplomatic trouble if it turns out French police had a hand in the kidnapping.

Bidault's council, however, was described by a French official after the BBC broadcast last Monday as "a so-called political movement whose only real purpose is the assassination of the French chief of state."

A warrant issued in Paris seven months ago accused Bidault of clandestine activities against the French state, but Junker said that was not involved. No warrant is out for Bidault here, he said, and the Frenchman has valid identity documents.

Under international law, the ex-premier, a onetime history professor who has helped make post-war history, cannot be extradited to France because he is charged with a political rather than a criminal offense.

Population Pattern Is Changing

Negro Movement Causes Decline In Rural Areas

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Southern Negro's exodus to the big cities in search of better jobs, education and living standards in the 1950's produced the first decline in the nation's rural population in one decade, it was reported Sunday.

A decline of 425,000 in the number of rural Americans in 1950-60 was announced by population Reference Bureau, Inc., a non-profit group of biologists, sociologists and economists. Urban areas gained 28 million persons, the biggest jump in history.

By 1960, the bureau reported, the U.S. population of 179.3 millions was 70 per cent urban. When the first census was taken in 1790, it was only 5 per cent.

The loss in rural population was centered in the south, the bureau said. The west, northeast and north central states grew in rural population.

This, the bureau said, was largely the result of the southern Negro's shift to southern and northern cities and to the west. Fourteen per cent (1,457,000 persons) of the nation's non-white population left the south in the 1950's.

In that decade, the bureau said, the nation's non-white population rose 26.8 per cent, while whites increased 17.9 per cent. By 1960, non-whites accounted for 11.2 per cent of the population, of which 10.6 per cent were Negro.

The surge was attributed to the higher birth rate of non-whites and the narrowing death rate between the two.

Other findings by the bureau: —Americans "grew younger" in the 1950's for the first time. Because of the continuing postwar baby boom, the median age of Americans fell from 30.2 to 29.5 years despite the fact that Americans 65 and older doubled the national rate of population growth.

—1960, American women were expected to live until they were 73, six years longer than the men. That year, there were 91 million females and 88 million males, with the number of females growing faster each year.

—Because American women outlive their men and thus acquire more inherited wealth, the bureau repeated its warning the nation was headed toward "gerontocracy," or "rule by a clique of elderly women."

—Fourteen million Americans moved from one state to another, most of them to already heavily populated areas.

—West Virginia lost 7 per cent of her population — the heaviest of any state. The big gainer was Florida, whose population rose 79 per cent.

—One of every four Americans attended school in 1960, compared with one of five in 1950. More had finished grade school, high school and college than ever before.

—In 1960, one of every three American women held jobs. The total labor force of 70 million was nearly one-third higher than in 1940.

—Americans earned more than ever before. In 1959, three of every five American families earned $5,000 a year or more. Ten years earlier, only one of every five earned that much.

"In no case can work be resumed under the threat of requisition and before negotiations have been started on guaranteed bases," a motion voted unanimously by the Lorraine miners said.

Score Students Hospitalized Following Fire

BELLPORT, N. Y. (UPI) — More than a score of youngsters, 16 of them in oxygen tents, remained hospitalized Sunday with smoke poisoning sustained in the $500,000 fire at Bellport High School.

One student, William Allers, 15, remained in critical condition with undetermined internal injuries.

Most of the injured were hurt leaping from second floor windows to escape the blaze Friday which destroyed a wing of the school.

Forty-four persons were admitted to Brookhaven Memorial Hospital in Patchogue, N.Y., and another 100 treated at the scene of the fire at the 900-student high school.

Bellport is 55 miles from New York City on Long Island's southern shore.

David Hassell, son of the Bellport fire commissioner, underwent surgery for two broken kneecaps suffered when he jumped from a second-floor window. He was reported in good condition.

His father, E. Floyd Hassell found the boy lying on the ground after the fire. "Don't worry about me, dad, help the other kids," young Hassell told his father.

It was learned later the youth had left the school before the fire alarm sounded, but went back into the building to rescue others. He then became trapped and was forced to jump from the window.

Classes at the school have been postponed until further notice, officials said.

ARNBERG, Germany (AP)—The casualty toll in Saturday's explosion at Belec rose to 19 dead and five critically injured Sunday.

The blast, believed caused by a bursting compressed air pipe, destroyed one large factory hall and damaged five others at the Siepmann works, one of Germany's largest drop forges.

They said he admitted firing it as his teen-age wife was parking the car.

He told police he feared his wife had planned to have him sent to a hospital, but he did not elaborate. He also told them he was afraid she would go back to a former suitor.

Mrs. Patrikousis manages to keep busy during the day by making her own bed and occasionally cooking one of her favorite Greek dishes for the family.

And she hasn't lost her sense of humor, either. She often chides her daughter Virginia for binging playing.

"Look at her—77 years old and wants to gamble," Grandma remarks.

To that her daughter respectfully replies, "I'm old enough to know what I'm doing mother."

They said he admitted firing it as his teen-age wife was parking the car.

French OAS Leader Asks For Asylum

Doubt Expressed Former Premier To Be Extradited

MUNICH, Germany (AP) — Bavarian authorities announced Sunday the detention of Georges Bidault, political leader of the French Secret Army Organization underground movement which wants to eliminate President Charles de Gaulle. Bidault promptly asked for asylum in West Germany.

The case of the dapper little former premier and foreign minister of France could complicate relations between Paris and Bonn at a time when De Gaulle and Chancellor Konrad Adenauer are striving to mold enduring friendship between the French and the Germans.

The arrest came six days after strained French-British relations were joined anew by the British Broadcasting Corp. presentation of a recorded television interview in which Bidault, a furtive visitor to Britain, predicted De Gaulle will be overthrown.

Bavarian Interior Minister Heinrich Junker said Bidault, 63, president of the right-wing French Council of National Resistance, was picked up by police at Steinbach, a village on Lake Wuerthsee. Junker said he was confined to his house. He was found with two French aides, who were not held.

Junker said the detention was ordered in a German probe into the alleged abduction in Munich on Feb. 25 of French secret army Col. Antoine Argoud, who was mysteriously delivered — bound hand and foot — to French police in Paris the following day.

Without disclosing details, the interior minister said all circumstances of the Argoud case have now been cleared up. This apparently indicated Bavarian authorities have identified the abductors. Bonn sources have predicted serious diplomatic trouble if it turns out French police had a hand in the kidnapping.

Bidault's council, however, was described by a French official after the BBC broadcast last Monday as "a so-called political movement whose only real purpose is the assassination of the French chief of state."

A warrant issued in Paris seven months ago accused Bidault of clandestine activities against the French state, but Junker said that was not involved. No warrant is out for Bidault here, he said, and the Frenchman has valid identity documents.

Under international law, the ex-premier, a onetime history professor who has helped make postwar history, cannot be extradited to France because he is charged with a political rather than a criminal offense.

Dirkser Agrees Blockade Could Be Act Of War

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen, Ill., agreed Sunday with President Kennedy that a complete U.S. blockade of Cuba would be an act of war and very risky.

At the same time, Dirksen agreed with a television interviewer that the four American fliers killed in the 1961 Bay of Pigs invasion were "recruited" under a policy laid down by the Eisenhower administration.

The implication left was that the men had been employed by the government. Just last Wednesday, President Kennedy sidestepped a question as to whether they were employees of the government or the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA).

On the blockade question, Dirksen said on the program (Issues and Answers-ABC) that there "could be a selective blockade or quarantine" that might cut off shipments to Cuba without the onus of a warlike action under international law.

But, he said, "nobody wants to take the chance of plunging his country into war if he can help it."

The GOP leader made the statement when asked about former Vice President Richard M. Nixon's suggestion last week that the United States enforce a "partial blockade" to shut off Cuba's oil supply lines. Nixon also called for a "complete quarantine . . . A political, diplomatic, economic and military quarantine of Cuba."

The question of the four fliers was posed by ABC Correspondent William H. Lawrence. At one point, he asked Dirksen: "Were you aware that these men were recruited under a policy approved in the Eisenhower administration in July, 1960?"

Without hesitation, Dirksen replied: "Oh, very definitely."

At his Wednesday news conference, the President declined to go into detail about the fliers on grounds that it would not be helpful to the interests of the United States.

But he said the men were serving their country on "a volunteer flight."

Police said they found the dead man's wallet with $6 in it, but couldn't locate his wife's purse.

Officials On Shore Asked To Meet Integrationists

BALTIMORE (AP)—Town officials in Cambridge and Princess Anne on Maryland's Eastern Shore have been asked to meet with a group of integrationists shortly if direct action by the group is to be avoided.

Telegrams asking for a meeting to discuss civil rights progress in the towns were sent after a meeting in Baltimore Saturday by representatives of student civil rights groups from Princess Anne, Cambridge and Philadelphia and the Civic Interest Group of Maryland CIG.

Clarence Logan, CIG chairman, said the purpose of the meeting was to set up a plan of action "which will be directed toward the ending of various economical and social inequities."

Telegrams were sent to Mayor Calvin Mowbray of Cambridge and City Manager Thomas Simpkins of Princess Anne. The telegram to Simpkins said students of Maryland State College in Princess Anne had asked CIG to meet Simpkins "concerning the lack of progress in your county."

The wire to Mowbray asked for a meeting with the mayor and council on March 21 because "there has been no evidence of continuous progress since last year."

"We're not saying we will have freedom rides," Logan said. "We want to talk to the people. We want to see what can be done before we go into any direct action."

New York News Strike Nears End

NEW YORK (UPI)—Publishers and union officials hope to begin wrapping up Monday the final issues in New York's three-month-old newspaper strike.

There was optimism that all of the city's major dailies would be back on the streets by the end of the week.

The publishers will meet with the newspaper guild, which has been asked to extend its current contract five months to provide a common expiration date with all other unions connected with the newspapers.

The publishers and printers reached a final agreement Saturday after three hours of talks when it was agreed the printers would get full 1962 and 1963 vacations despite the lengthy dispute, now in its 93rd day.

Common Expiration Date

The printers' settlement also provides for the common expiration date of all newspaper union contracts — two years from the date the printers' contract is signed.

The newspaper guild, which represents editorial and commercial employees, now is working under a contract which expires Oct. 31, 1964. The union is being asked to extend it to coincide with the agreement to be signed with the printers.

Negotiators for the Publishers Association of New York City and the guild scheduled a Monday morning meeting to discuss the issue. The guild has indicated it will ask for improvements in its own contract if it agrees to extend the pact by five months.

It was learned, meanwhile, that leaders of the International Typographical Union (ITU) and top local union officials convinced Bertram A. Powers, president of striking ITU Local 6, to accept a new two-year contract.

Union Chief Consulted

Elmer Brown, president of the ITU, and his five-man executive committee had flown here last week from Colorado Springs, Colo., to look over the terms for settlement which Mayor Robert F. Wagner had suggested to both sides.

The printers' contract calls for a $4 weekly wage increase the first year and another $4 in the second; job protection against automation; two additional sick leave days in the second year and a reduction in the work week in the second year from 36½ hours to 35.

Police Raid Baltimore Co. Cock Fight

UPPERCOE, Md. (AP)—Baltimore County police raided a farm near this Baltimore County community late Saturday night and charged more than 70 persons in connection with a cock fight being held.

Capt. Benjamin F. Long, who led 10 police officers in the raid, said there were some 130 persons in a barn on the farm of J.S. Marshall when patrolmen entered. He said most of those in the barn made a hasty retreat through doors and windows, but police were able to apprehend over 70 and issue summonses for disorderly conduct.

Long said there were two rings in the heated barn and a cock fight was in progress when policemen entered.

The police captain said officers found 11 dead fighting cocks and 20 live ones, which were turned over to the Baltimore County Humane Society. Long described the set-up as an "extremely professional operation."

Long said police also confiscated a number of betting slips and some steel spurs.

Marshall and Joseph F. Woolford, 64, of Owings Mill, Md., were booked on charges of operating a disorderly house and released under bond of $500 each. The others apprehended were released after posting $11.45 collateral.

State's Traffic Toll Is Now 92

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Two girls died in separate Maryland traffic accidents this weekend, raising the state's highway death toll to 92 for this year, compared to 65 for a corresponding period in 1962.

Bonnie J. Sparpalone, 21, of Frankford, Del., was killed and three male companions were injured late Saturday when the car in which they were riding went off the road on U.S. 113 about three and a half miles south of Snow Hill, Md.

State police said the car went out of control, veered off the road and rolled over. Miss Sparpalone was pronounced dead on arrival at Peninsula General Hospital. George Shockey, 21, of Snow Hill and William Bozman Jr., 18, of Pittsville were reported to be in satisfactory condition with severe head and face cuts at the hospital.

A third occupant of the car was treated at the hospital and released.

Earlier, Jane Booth, 15, of Baltimore was struck by a car and killed as she crossed a city street. Police said the girl crossed the street in front of a parked bus and was struck by a car as it passed the bus. She was dead on arrival at Johns Hopkins Hospital.

Md. Reports Three Weekend Fires

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A 27-year-old woman died Sunday in one of three fires which erupted in Maryland.

The body of Evelyn Ridgeway was found by volunteer firemen as they fought a blaze in her two-story home near Ridgely on Maryland's Eastern Shore. State police said a neighbor, John Sewell, discovered the fire Sunday morning and called the fire department. The cause of the fire has not been determined.

Also Sunday morning a fire, believed to have started in a church steeple, destroyed the interior of the Emmorton Baptist Church, in Emmorton, about 2½ miles south of Bel Air. No one was injured.

In Baltimore a two-alarm blaze raced through the Sun Ray Drug Store at a north Baltimore shopping center. No injuries were reported and the amount of the damage has not been estimated.

The Atlantic Ocean is divided into the North Atlantic and South Atlantic. There is no definite zone of demarcation between the two.

Sen. Byrd Seeks Forest Service Lab For WVU

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., said Sunday he will seek an appropriation of $500,000 this year to plan and start construction of a U.S. Forest Service forestry sciences laboratory at the University of West Virginia, Morgantown.

Byrd, member of the Senate Appropriations Committee, said he plans to offer an amendment adding the $500,000 to a bill making appropriations to the forest service for the year starting next July 1.

"By locating the laboratory at West Virginia University, U.S. Forest Service scientists and engineers could advantageously undertake cooperative forest research programs with the university's agriculture engineering school and the college of engineering," Byrd said.

Such research efforts, he said, could be of vital importance to West Virginia and other Appalachian Mountain states.

Bonnie J. Sparapione, 21, of Frankford, Del., was killed and three male companions were injured late Saturday when the car in which they were riding went off the road on U.S. 113 about three and a half miles south of Snow Hill, Md.

State police said the car went out of control, veered off the road and rolled over. Miss Sparapione was pronounced dead on arrival at Peninsula General Hospital. George Shockey, 21, of Snow Hill and William Bozman Jr., 18, of Pittsville were reported to be in satisfactory condition with severe head and face cuts at the hospital.

A third occupant of the car was treated at the hospital and released.

Earlier, Jane Booth, 15, of Baltimore was struck by a car and killed as she crossed a city street. Police said the girl crossed the street in front of a parked bus and was struck by a car as it passed the bus. She was dead on arrival at Johns Hopkins Hospital.

There Are Things Worse Than War

NEW YORK (AP) — Score one for the Navy.

"Please ignore my letter about West Point," a 9-year-old boy in Utica, N. Y., wrote Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, adding this explanation: "I just heard on the radio that our soldiers are being trained for gorilla (sic) fighting. I saw 'King Kong' at the movies last year and I don't think I'd be interested in fighting those things. Try to get me into the Naval Academy instead."

Md. Reports Three Weekend Fires

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
A 27-year-old woman died Sunday in one of three fires which erupted in Maryland.

The body of Evelyn Ridgeway was found by volunteer firemen as they fought a blaze in her two-story home near Ridgely on Maryland's Eastern Shore. State police said a neighbor, John Sewell, discovered the fire Sunday morning and called the fire department. The cause of the fire has not been determined.

Also Sunday morning a fire, believed to have started in a church steeple, destroyed the interior of the Emmorton Baptist Church, in Emmorton, about 2½ miles south of Bel Air. No one was injured.

In Baltimore a two-alarm blaze raced through the Sun Ray Drug Store at a north Baltimore shopping center. No injuries were reported and the amount of the damage has not been estimated.

The Atlantic Ocean is divided into the North Atlantic and South Atlantic. There is no definite zone of demarcation between the two.

Sen. Byrd Seeks Forest Service Lab For WVU

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., said Sunday he will seek an appropriation of $500,000 this year to plan and start construction of a U.S. Forest Service forestry sciences laboratory at the University of West Virginia, Morgantown.

Byrd, member of the Senate Appropriations Committee, said he plans to offer an amendment adding the $500,000 to a bill making appropriations to the forest service for the year starting next July 1.

"By locating the laboratory at West Virginia University, U.S. Forest Service scientists and engineers could advantageously undertake cooperative forest research programs with the university's agriculture engineering school and the college of engineering," Byrd said.

Such research efforts, he said, could be of vital importance to West Virginia and other Appalachian Mountain states.

GOREN ON BRIDGE

BY CHARLES H. GOREN
ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ
1c 1963: By The Chicago Tribune

Q. 1—As South you hold:

South	West	North	East
1♥	Pass	2♦	Pass
3♥	Pass	3♠	Pass
3NT	Pass	4♥	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Six hearts. North has shown a good hand, first by responding at the level of two, then by showing the spade control and subsequently by supporting hearts. He should, therefore, have the necessary ingredients to produce 12 tricks.

Q. 2—As South you hold:

South	West	North	East
1072	AI 975	K72	3

The bidding has proceeded:

East	South	West	North
1♠	Pass	Pass	4♥
Pass	?	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Partner has shown a strong hand, one of which he can win at least eight or nine tricks himself. You should, therefore, be conscious of slam, and it is suggested that you bid at least five spades. This is a vague sort of bid, of course, at this level it is hard to be precise, but you must get across to partner the notion that you have some cards which will be highly useful to him.

Q. 3—As South you hold:

South	West	North	East
1♠	1♥	Pass	2♥

What do you bid now?

A.—Three hearts. While we did not choose to open this hand with a two demand bid, prospects are better now than they were at the start, simply because the hearts, a suit which would have done us no good, are marked with both openings. This makes the likelihood very great that we will find a fit with one of our own preference should the circumstances, we consider the three heart bid slightly superior to a take-out double.

Q. 4—As South you hold:

South	West	North	East
1♠	Pass	1♠	Pass
2♣	Pass	2NT	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Three hearts. While you have trump, you proceed to three no trump, your own preference should be for a heart contract if that is agreeable with partner. The bid of three hearts at this point, after both partners have shown good hands, is forcing. North must either raise to four hearts or return to three no trump.

Q. 5—As South you hold:

South	West	North	East
1♠	Pass	2♦	Pass
3♥	Pass	3♠	Pass
3NT	Pass	4♥	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Double again. Even the partner was unable to make a free bid, you should not abandon this hand, which contains 17 points in high cards. A bid of two diamonds is not recommended; the double could result in a late leave-in by partner, which might prove profitable.

Q. 6—As South, both sides vulnerable, you hold:

South	West	North	East
1♠	Pass	1♠	Pass
2♣	Pass	2♣	Pass

What do you bid?

A.—Pass. There is no action that you can take with safety. Against an opening bidder and an adversary who has been able to respond at the level of two, it is extremely risky to reach for an eight trick contract with a hand that may well produce no more than four tricks. The bidding dies prematurely. It will be time enough for you to consider taking action.

Q. 7—As South, you hold:

South	West	North	East
1♠	1♥	Pass	2♥

What do you bid now?

A.—Four hearts. Even if partner has made a shaded response, you do not wish to play for less than game. Your hand is worth 20 points in support of hearts. Remember that a jump to three hearts would permit partner to pass.

Q. 8—As South you hold:

South	West	North	East
1♠	Pass	1♠	Pass
2♣	Pass	2♣	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Four hearts. Even if partner has made a shaded response, you do not wish to play for less than game. Your hand is worth 20 points in support of hearts. Remember that a jump to three hearts would permit partner to pass.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Don't Throw Fashion Out Your Window

From the at-home attire of many a woman, one suspects that fashion goes out the window as she enters the door of her home. It's part of the "just-a-housewife" attitude that down-grades the great importance of the vocation to which most women are called. The "career" woman is expected to be well-groomed and properly dressed. Most women are at least conscious of how they look when "out" — at work, social functions, most excursions from home.

Yet the same women will appear utterly unconscious of the extraordinary appearance of their "ordinary" outfits for housework (full or part time) and evenings with the family. Floppy, ill-fitting, unbecoming, untidy—how many of your days and hours are spent in clothes that fit any or all of these descriptions?

No, we don't suggest that you "dress like a model" for scrubbing floors and washing dishes—if that means dressing up as you would for a party. But in another sense—a model, or any woman, who takes pride in her appearance tries not to descend to downright frumpiness in casual attire.

Economy isn't a good excuse. Pretty cotton shirtwaists, attractive sports outfits, all kinds of coordinates, are so widely available at low cost. They'll give long service with good care, but it's wise to add a new outfit once in a while before the old one is actually in tatters. Be just as particular about choosing as in selecting your best dress. It can be comfortable and pretty, practical and becoming.

The worst excuse is "no one will see." Does "no one" mean just precisely those you care most for—your husband, children, best friends who drop in? And though you may "hide" from the general public most of the winter, what about warm days coming soon? You'll be tempted outside more often without time to change or heavy coat to disguise. Take some time now to check over your "household" array.

Of course one of your biggest at-home requirements is comfort.

Oldest Grocer

RALLS, Tex. (UPI) —S. J. Ousley believes he is the oldest grocer in the world.

Ousley is 92. He works a six-day, 48-hour week in a neighborhood supermarket, crating eggs, stocking shelves and checking produce.

Eat Up!

CHICAGO (UPI) — The Grocery Manufacturers of America, Inc. expect 1963 food expenditures to exceed $82 billion.

Food supplies are abundant, the organization said, and no shortages are expected in any major areas.

Eats Up Profits

HELSINKI (UPI) — Matti Raatikainen said Wednesday he was scratching one of his cows on the forehead when another snatched his billfold from his pocket. Before he knew what was happening, the farmer said, the second cow had eaten about 700 marks ($219) in bills.

Electronic Bingo

BEAMINGSTER, England (UPI) —Mrs. Iris Banbury has been put on probation for three years because a "craze" for bingo led her to steal money from the coin box of her home electric meter.

The 27-year-old mother of six small children said, "I have decided my family are more important than bingo. I am prepared to do without it."

called the roll of honored dead. As each name was called, lights focused on the white altar were raised, disclosing a golden eagle, candelabra and white flowers. After the last name was called, Lynn E. Tharp, past worthy president, placed a memorial wreath in front of the altar.

After the memorial pageant, Rabbi Max Selinger of B'Er Chayim Congregation said a prayer and a young men's quartet sang "Goin' Home." Mr. Anderson's address was followed by another song by the Allegany choir, benediction by Rev. Elbert J. Hebert, assistant pastor of St. Patrick's Catholic Church, and closing remarks by Mr. Myers.

Some distinguished scientists believe there is life on Mars, but evidence of poison gas on the red planet challenges this popular theory. Recent spectroscopic studies indicate that Mars' atmosphere, which is largely nitrogen, also contains poisonous nitrogen peroxide. If the gas should be present on Mars, there could be no life as it exists on earth.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Men make unkind remarks about what we women wear. I'd like to express my views on men's fashions. The thing men call a suit is the most unimaginative, the dullest get-up ever stitched together.

Why must men's suits be so drab? Why always a lifeless grey or a muddy brown? The greys are not even true greys. And the blacks are not true blacks.

Men should rebel against dead colors which have been foisted on them by convention-bound manufacturers. Let them demand electric blue, shocking pink and emerald green. And why not an occasional floral pattern to liven up a dreary day?

Transfusions

NEW YORK (UPI) — An estimated 1.3 million Americans suffer non-fatal adverse reactions to blood transfusions and drugs each year, according to a survey by the U.S. Public Health Service.

The bulk of the adverse reactions apparently are caused by influenza and other vaccines, the PHS said.

Leaves Parent Firm

CHICAGO (UPI) — Masterpiece Mirror Corp. announced on Wednesday it has severed itself from its former parent organiza-

An estimated 112 million new tooth cavities occur each year among Americans above the age of six.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Men make unkind remarks about what we women wear. I'd like to express my views on men's fashions. The thing men call a suit is the most unimaginative, the dullest get-up ever stitched together.

Why must men's suits be so drab? Why always a lifeless grey or a muddy brown? The greys are not even true greys. And the blacks are not true blacks.

Men should rebel against dead colors which have been foisted on them by convention-bound manufacturers. Let them demand electric blue, shocking pink and emerald green. And why not an occasional floral pattern to liven up a dreary day?

Don't say it can't be done, Ann. All it takes is a ball of fire like you to get behind the idea. Will you join me in this great crusade to revolutionize the men's clothing industry?—LOVER OF COLOR

Unnecessary Mystery In CIA

It is suggested by the circuitous way in which pensions were paid widows of four Americans lost in the 1961 Bay of Pigs disaster that they may have been employees of the Central Intelligence Agency.

It is not surprising that clandestine operations may cost lives. What is not good about this particular situation is that after disclosure no longer would have compromised CIA operations the administration still insisted no American governmental employees' lives were lost in the fiasco.

A republic cannot disown its operatives as casually as a totalitarian government can. Neither can all operations in the national interest be conducted in the glare of full publicity. Yet there is a mid-point in these matters where practical horse sense should govern.

From an intelligence collecting and evaluating agency CIA has turned into a suspected intervener in affairs of other governments. In effect it creates foreign policy. It might be credited with the overthrow of a Communist setup in Guatemala in 1954 and blamed for losses in Iran in 1953 and Laos in 1962.

From a relatively small agency it has grown in size, operating from a huge installation in the Virginia countryside. It is so secretive that its Washington employees are forbidden even to say where they work. This air of mystery cloaks any statistical clerk with the mantle of an E. Phillips Oppenheim character.

As in the military, really top secret matters should be entrusted only to persons properly cleared to handle them. But there is a time for secrecy and a time for talking.

These Days

By John Chamberlain

Air Age Needs Freedom

MIAMI — The international airport here is one of the great wonders and attractions of this hop-off region for Latin America, a huge development that hardly consorts with the limitations on movement which Communist imposes on any section of the world it takes over. In this sense, Fidel Castro, who has frozen Cuba into an archaic pattern of society a hundred miles to the south, must be a symbol of death for Pan American, Eastern, Delta and other big airlines that move in and out of the Miami region.

The airport is practically a community in itself; indeed, there is talk of making it into the twenty-ninth city of Dade County, which has a sort of super-city metropolitan government that tries to co-ordinate traffic and other problems that can't be contained in the old small community boundaries. Some 25,000 people work for the airport; the payrolls amount to $140 million a year. Altogether, the airport supports a population of some 75,000 persons. This population, according to a local estimate, drives 26,750 cars, sends 12,750 children to schools, needs a thousand retail stores to provide for its wants, and spends $90 million a year on retail trade. You can see what a hole would be made in Miami's economy if the air age were somehow to vanish.

Because of the freedom of movement provided by the air age, Californians now come to Florida by big jet for vacations instead of hopping to Hawaii. They may then move on to the Caribbean, or even jump directly to Lisbon in Portugal, a 4,726-mile leap.

But even as great Pan American jets move from 10,500-foot runway to take off from Miami for distant parts, the entire world save for English-speaking North America, western Europe and the islands of the Pacific is threatened with the concealment that Marxism imposes. In Cuba, where clothing is now rationed, Communist emissaries from Brazil and other Latin American countries plot to take their respective homelands out of the world circulatory system. The ineffable Francisco Juliano, Communist leader of the impoverished peasants of northeastern Brazil, comes to Havana to study the methods of subversion that have served to immobilize Cuba. Of course, Juliano doesn't see freedom in terms of motion, but immobility is what he is really championing. The peasants of northeastern Brazil may have little enough now, but they will have even less if their country goes Communist and has to live by slow-moving methods of inter-Communist barter.

When Juan Terry Trippe was starting Pan American Airways back in the Nineteen Twenties, Cuba was the first piece of territory he had to conquer for free movement. Havana, in the days of the short hop, was the "stopper"; landing rights were indeed there if Pan American planes were to go on to Panama and Peru. Once Trippe had reached an agreement with the Cuban government, everything was possible.

Today the Havana "stopper" is no longer crucial. But Latin America as a whole is desperately dependent on movement by air. In many Central and South American countries there are literally no roads. Travel proceeds at the pace of a walk, or by slow movement up rivers. Sometimes there are narrow-gauge railroads. But if there were no air routes, only the coastal towns would have free contact with the outer world.

So it is a question whether Latin America can afford quitting the world of free movement to join the congealed world of the Reds. True enough, Soviet Russia can make planes. But Red China, as Senator Barry Goldwater has said, still strives to exist by a richshaw economy, and Soviet Russia by itself can hardly supply the air transport that is needed to keep Latin Americans in motion. Only the technological skills that are fastened in an atmosphere of freedom can do that.

Since he lives in the world of free motion, it is perhaps no accident that Captain Eddie Rickenbacker of Eastern Airlines has become one of the most vociferous campaigners for enforcement of the Monroe Doctrine. A man who has faced many dangers and surmounted them by fortitude and skill, Eddie Rickenbacker has a well-developed sense of self-preservation. The problem is to communicate this sense to Latin Americans who are beguiled and deluded by Castro. But it is even more necessary to regain it for ourselves.

Best Of Hopes And Worst Of Fears For Europe

By Joseph Alsop

ROME

As seen from Rome, Gen. de Gaulle has something of the terrifying unpredictability of an ancient dinosaur turned loose in a wonderfully prosperous modern cabbage patch.

The cabbage patch, of course, is the European Common Market, as all Italians proudly remember, by the Treaty of Rome. In the years of the Common Market, Italy's surge toward has been as remarkable as it is gratifying.

The industrial north is boiling with prosperity. The tragic south is at last beginning to lose its strange aspect of an under-developed country in the midst of modern Europe. In Rome itself, the tide of wealth is threatening to submerge the city's ancient beauty in modern building.

But in this Common Market which has done so much for Italy, here is Gen. de Gaulle attempting to assert French hegemony in the Europe of the Six. Here is Gen. de Gaulle demanding an exclusive and protectionist European agricultural and trade policy. Here is Gen. de Gaulle proclaiming Europe for the Europeans, and quite probably seeking to get rid of the American military presence which is Europe's main defense.

What to do about this dinosaur-like figure? That is the question every Italian leader is asking himself. As already reported, all the present leaders of the Italian government are united in believing that they must resist the General's attempt to transform the old Europe of the Six into a wholly different Gaullist Europe — although a good many are doubtful about the ultimate success of this resistance if the Germans will not join in.

The attempt to resist will be made in any case. The broad lines of the resistance can even be predicted. The struggle will begin with this spring's scheduled intra-European negotiations to complete the Common Market's common agricultural policy.

"The chances are rather good," says one of the wisest and most influentially placed Italians, "that there will be no common agricultural policy this year or even next year."

That strikes the essential note. The Italian aim, in other words, is to hang onto the Common Market as it now exists, but not to go forward in the direction being pointed by Gen. de Gaulle.

As well try to persuade a dinosaur to do the two-step, as to try to persuade Gen. de Gaulle to change his own direction. Such is the Italian opinion, and from this flows the conviction that the best thing for Europe will be to halt about where Europe now is.

Certain forward steps of a minor character are thought to be safe. For example, the association with Europe and the ex-French and ex-Belgian African states, recently halted by the Italians, will almost certainly be approved after the Italian election.

Other major forward steps are desired, if Gen. de Gaulle will agree to them. The best example is the further lowering of the Common Market's internal tar-

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

PRODIGAL'S RETURN — Noah Mason, a staunch conservative, returned from Congress at the end of the last session, after serving 26 years in the House of Representatives. During that time, he rose to be ranking minority member of one of the House's most important committees, Ways and Means, which initiates tax legislation. However, apparently Mason has gotten homesick for his old environs. He quickly registered to appear as a witness before that same committee when it hears evidence on the administration's tax cut bill.

Mason always stood four-square for economy in government. He always insisted that witnesses before the Ways and Means Committee be brief and to the point. He diligently followed the practice of cutting them off whenever, in his opinion, they became too windy.

Now, his former colleagues say, they're not absolutely sure what he'll have to say about taxes, but they are sure he had better be brief!

Right Home Care Aids Arthritis Treatment

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

The success or failure of treatment for arthritis often depends upon what the victim does for himself at home. Best results are obtained when the individual obtains specific instructions on what is good and what is bad. The aims are to ease distress and prevent the number one enemy of all arthritics—deformity.

Heat is suggested and several home methods are available. But a swollen, hot, and reddened joint may be made worse by warmth which increases circulation and brings more fluid into a confined joint space. This trapped fluid adds to the pressure, causing pain, and it may damage the inflamed surfaces.

The application of ice packs may be more helpful by reducing swelling and inflammation but they should not be applied for more than 15 to 20 minutes. Stroking the area with an ice cube for 3 minutes often relieves pain.

Massage ought to be done by a qualified therapist. However, the arthritic can massage his own joints, even though the hands are involved, except when the parts are swollen and extremely tender to the touch. Massage ought to follow a pattern type of motion, going from the insertion of the muscles toward the heart. Use talcum powder when the skin is moist and an oily substance when it is dry.

But the best defense against deformity is the proper positioning of the joints during rest and active exercise. Many arthritics are greatly incapacitated because the knees have stiffened at a 90 degree angle or the fingers have been bent at odd angles. The physician should be consulted along this line because the positions to avoid are well known.

The purpose of exercise is to maintain, if possible, the functioning power of every joint in the body. This must be attempted during the initial stages of arthritis, even though it is impossible to move the joint but a fraction of an inch. Exercise daily but don't overdo it. The signs of overexertion are pain that develops during exercise and lasts for 2 hours thereafter and stiff joints the next day.

Dr. Van Dellen will send leaflet on home aids in arthritis, if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

R. C. J. writes: Is it advisable for a person with emphysema to stop smoking?

REPLY

Yes, because the condition is worsened by the habit. Some authorities blame the marked increase in the incidence of this lung disease on heavy smoking. The victim of emphysema coughs and becomes short of breath; unless treated, he may become completely incapacitated.

Rep. Powell Plans To Strike Back At Critics Of His Free Junketing

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—Adam Clayton Powell, the No. 1 "Harlem Globe-Trotter," has told colleagues that he is preparing to hit back at those who have been criticizing his trips abroad.

"I've kept my mouth shut as long as I can," Powell complained at a secret caucus with Democratic members of his Education and Labor Committee. "However, I have a lot of information about the spending habits of other members of Congress, including a few Senators, which will make an interesting story when I turn it loose."

Powell didn't mention any names, but threatened to expose "a number of guys" who had "spent a great deal more money than me since I came to Congress."

What intrigued members of the Administration Committee, who earlier had examined Powell's budget, was one item of $25 for a special limousine to the Baltimore airport. Many other Congressmen have taken this trip, but paid $2.50 on the bus.

They were also interested in Adam's intercom by which he can listen in on the meetings of his subcommittees. This means that he doesn't have to attend subcommittee meetings, but can merely sit in his office and listen. When he wants to make an observation, he simply pushes a button, interrupts the proceedings, and over the intercom tells what he thinks of the debate.

When asked who paid for this, Powell said he wasn't sure whether it came out of his Education and Labor Committee funds, but admitted it came from federal funds.

He also recommended that his colleagues get "executive-type" phones. "Mine is just like the Speaker's," he said. "You fellows had better get one."

"Afro-Asian Flu"

The dashing Harlem Congressman, who claims he has been victimized because he is a Negro, opened the session with a quip. "I am here against doctor's orders," he said. "I have the Asian flu, or should I call it the Afro-Asian flu?"

At first, Powell wouldn't admit that he or members of his staff had taken thirty trips to Puerto Rico in the past two years—paid for out of Education and Labor Committee funds.

Mrs. Powell, who is on the government payroll for $12,000 a year, lives at the Powell beach mansion outside San Juan, and the Congressman has been a regular commuter.

However, Rep. John Kyl, R-Ar., cited dates and airline bills for seven trips which definitely established Powell as the user of the tickets. Twenty-three other trips were also made, but Mrs. Louise Maxienne Dargans had purchased the tickets in blank, so that no name showed on the airline records.

Rep. Kyl also questioned Powell about the junket which Mrs. Dargans herself had taken to Cannes, France, last November, just two months after the Congressman had returned from his own luxury trip to Europe with two lady assistants.

Despite the publicity given Powell's trip in September, two months later he authorized his secretary to go to the fashionable French tourist resort on the Mediterranean. Obviously, if you want to study bikinis, Cannes is the place to go. But if Mrs. Dargans was charged with studying labor or education problems, a big industrial city—or even the Library of Congress—was more appropriate.

Congressman Powell had no real explanation of this. He insisted, however, that Mrs. Dargans was on "committee business." "I don't permit foreign trips by staff aides any more than other Congressmen," he said, emphasizing the last five words.

Under The Dome

Congressman Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, is irked over the way President Kennedy has been backing and filling on tax cuts and reforms. Mills grumbles that when Kennedy changes his mind from week to week about the necessity of closing tax loopholes, it will be difficult to pass a good bill. . . . JFK has told Congressional leaders that tax cuts alone won't be enough. He assured them that he still wants tax reforms, too. However, he hinted that he would be willing to postpone any reforms that might jeopardize the tax cuts. . . . It isn't being advertised, but our first atomic merchant ship, the Savannah, is barred from most seaports of the world outside the United States. Despite this, it has been tying up at American ports, even while officials are experimenting with new safety precautions. Meanwhile, foreign nations consider the Savannah too dangerous. . . . Norway fishermen have hauled radioactive fish out of the Barents Sea. . . . probably contaminated by Soviet nuclear tests in nearby Novaya Zemlya. . . . Congressman Morris Udall of Arizona, brother of the Secretary of the Interior, is supporting Leroy Collins, head of the National Association of Broadcasters, in his drive to restrict Tobacco commercials on radio and television. Congressman Udall would go further and curtail advertising for beer and wine, as well as tobacco.

SEATTLE, Washington—Boeing is big. One of every six persons working in this area is employed by the aircraft company. The plants seem to stretch for miles south of the city. Each one is surrounded by the confetti of thousands of parked cars. My interest was in one man. He's a dark, high speed don't-interrupt-me talker named Guilford L. Hollingsworth.

Mr. Hollingsworth is director of the scientific research laboratories, which means that he is much more interested in the aircraft of tomorrow than those in flight today. He runs a long two-story building full of big squarish rooms. The rooms have machines and testing gear which appear to have been invented by Rube Goldberg, if Rube was loaded.

All it needs is Boris Karloff as doorman. Most of the scientific engineers work loosely; that is to say, no one says, "Go invent a new space ship," or "Find out what happens to sound in dead silence." Guil sits in a roomy office, running his hand through his hair, hoping that the whole place won't blow up — explosively or contract-wise.

Out of the airport are some of the products: the 330th 707 jet transport to be delivered to aircraft companies; the 720B, the new 3-jet 727, which is being test-flown before delivery; the military aircraft, Hollingsworth has no eye for this stuff.

He walks down a long corridor to a room where a brace of engineers has built a machine which achieves an almost pure vacuum. This simulates outer space. It looks like an octopus made of heavy gauge steel. Objects sent through it will behave exactly as objects will in the far reaches of the universe.

There is a glass tube through which a shock wave can be sent in three one-millionths of a second. It's about six feet long. After a few tests, the glass tube becomes oxidized and cannot be used again.

There are slow speed tunnels and high-speed ones too. Through one, a tiny model aircraft withstands speeds of mach 40—about 29,000 miles per hour. Guilford has all kinds of conceptions and theories. One is that men tend to think of the similarity of things; women think of the difference in things.

For example, men think of a salt shaker and a pepper shaker as one set of condiments. Women think of them as separate, and different. He used to administer adroit little mental tests to would-be scientists. One was to take the man to lunch and insist that he eat ham. Then he would be brought back and shown a big desk.

In the middle was a narrow deep well. In the bottom was a table tennis ball. Around the table were objects: a string with a piece of gum stuck on it; a set of surgical forceps; a glass of water; a knife; eyebrow tweezers; a magnetized needle; two long forks; a blow pipe.

The victim was told to select any object which would get the little ball out of the well. He had to look and think. Naturally, after so much ham for lunch, he drank the water. Ironically, this was the only item which would get the ball out of the well. Everything else was too short.

Boeing has completed its 35-foot model of Dyna-Soar, a manned space glider. It is a black object with a nose like a plane, two front windows and two small side windows, two delta wings with curled-up edges to serve as stabilizers. This object is halfway between the X-15 airplane and a true missile. When it is tested, within the next year or two, it will represent completely controlled flight in outer space.

For takeoff, it will sit on top of a Titan III missile like a paper dart. The Titan will lift it into orbit, and drop off in two stages. The pilot of Dyna-Soar will then be on his own. He will circle the earth at 17,500 miles per hour for as long as he chooses.

To steer in outer space — he can chase the moon if he pleases — he has little gas jets which will turn him in any direction, correct a list, move upward or down. If, for example, he chose to land at Edwards Air Force Base in California, the pilot would fire retro-rockets over the northern coast of Australia.

All he has to do is to slow up from 17,500 miles per hour to 17,200. At once, Dyna-Soar is moving so slowly to remain in orbit and will start to come down in a long steady glide. On the ground, radar control will give the pilot the proper heading. As Dyna-Soar hits the friction of the earth's air ocean, the ceramic nose cone will heat to 4,000 degrees of glowing coal.

The pilot will not bail out, as all astronauts have done so far. He will glide slower and slower. When he sees the airport, he will push a button and an assortment of wire brushes, mounted on skis, will emerge underneath. He will land on these, come to a stop, and step out.

If he doesn't, well, back to the drawing boards, fellas. . . .

Unnecessary Mystery In CIA

It is suggested by the circuitous way in which pensions were paid widows of four Americans lost in the 1961 Bay of Pigs disaster that they may have been employees of the Central Intelligence Agency.

It is not surprising that clandestine operations may cost lives. What is not good about this particular situation is that after disclosure no longer would have compromised CIA operations the administration still insisted no American governmental employees' lives were lost in the fiasco.

A republic cannot disown its operatives as casually as a totalitarian government can. Neither can all operations in the national interest be conducted in the glare of full publicity. Yet there is a mid-point in these matters where practical horse sense should govern.

From an intelligence collecting and evaluating agency CIA has turned into a suspected intervener in affairs of other governments. In effect it creates foreign policy. It might be credited with the overthrow of a Communist setup in Guatemala in 1954 and blamed for losses in Iran in 1953 and Laos in 1962.

From a relatively small agency it has grown in size, operating from a huge installation in the Virginia countryside. It is so secretive that its Washington employees are forbidden even to say where they work. This air of mystery cloaks any statistical clerk with the mantle of an E. Phillips Oppenheim character.

As in the military, really top secret matters should be entrusted only to persons properly cleared to handle them. But there is a time for secrecy and a time for talking.

These Days

Air Age Needs Freedom

MIAMI — The international airport here is one of the great wonders and attractions of this off-off region for Latin America, a huge development that hardly comports with the limitations on movement which Communist imposes on any section of the world it takes over. In this sense, Fidel Castro, who has frozen Cuba into an archaic pattern of society a hundred miles to the south, must be a symbol of death for Pan American, Eastern, Delta and other big airlines that move in and out of the Miami region.

The airport is practically a community in itself; indeed, there is talk of making it into the twenty-ninth city of Dade County, which has a sort of super-city metropolitan government that tries to co-ordinate traffic and other problems that can't be contained in the old small community boundaries. Some 25,000 people work for the airport; the payrolls amount to $140 million a year. Altogether, the airport supports a population of some 75,000 persons. This population, according to a local estimate, drives 26,750 cars, sends 12,750 children to schools, needs a thousand retail stores to provide for its wants, and spends $90 million a year on retail trade. You can see what a hole would be made in Miami's economy if the air age were somehow to vanish.

Because of the freedom of movement provided by the air age, Californians now come to Florida by big jet for vacations instead of hopping to Hawaii. They may then move on to the Caribbean, or even jump directly to Lisbon in Portugal, a 4,726-mile leap.

But even as great Pan American jets move from 10,500-foot runway to take off from Miami for distant parts, the entire world save for English-speaking North America, western Europe and the islands of the Pacific is threatened with the concealment that Marxism imposes. In Cuba, where clothing is now rationed, Communist emissaries from Brazil and other Latin American countries pot to take their respective homelands out of the world circulatory system. The ineffable Francisco Juliano, Communist leader of the impoverished peasants of northeastern Brazil, comes to Havana to study the methods of subversion that have served to immobilize Cuba. Of course, Juliano doesn't see freedom in terms of motion, but immobility is what he is really championing. The peasants of northeastern Brazil may have little enough now, but they will have even less if their country goes Communist and has to live by slow-moving methods of inter-Communist barter.

When Juan Terry Trippe was starting Pan American Airways back in the Nineteen Twenties, Cuba was the first piece of territory he had to conquer for free movement. Havana, in the days of the short hop, was the "stopper"; landing rights were indeed there if Pan American planes were to go on to Panama and Peru. Once Trippe had reached an agreement with the Cuban government, everything was possible.

Today the Havana "stopper" is no longer crucial. But Latin America as a whole is desperately dependent on movement by air. In many Central and South American countries there are literally no roads. Travel proceeds at the pace of a walk, or by slow movement up rivers. Sometimes there are narrow-gauge railroads. But if there were no air routes, only the coastal towns would have free contact with the outer world.

So it is a question whether Latin America can afford quitting the world of free movement to join the congealed world of the Reds. True enough, Soviet Russia can make planes. But Red China, as Senator Barry Goldwater has said, still strives to exist by a richshaw economy, and Soviet Russia by itself can hardly supply the air transport that is needed to keep Latin Americans in motion. Only the technological skills that are fostered in an atmosphere of freedom can do that.

Since he lives in the world of free motion, it is perhaps no accident that Captain Eddie Rickenbacker of Eastern Airlines has become one of the most vociferous campaigners for enforcement of the Monroe Doctrine. A man who has faced many dangers and surmounted them by fortitude and skill, Eddie Rickenbacker has a well-developed sense of self-preservation. The problem is to communicate this sense to Latin Americans who are beguiled and deluded by Castro. But it is even more necessary to regain it for ourselves.

Best Of Hopes And Worst Of Fears For Europe

By Joseph Alsop

ROME — As seen from Rome, Gen. de Gaulle has something of the terrifying unpredictability of an ancient dinosaur turned loose in a wonderfully prosperous modern cabbage patch.

The cabbage patch, of course, is the European Common Market, formed, as all Italians proudly remember, by the Treaty of Rome. In the years of the Common Market, Italy's surge toward has been as remarkable as it is gratifying.

The industrial north is boiling with prosperity. The tragic south is at last beginning to lose its strange aspect of an under-developed country in the midst of modern Europe. In Rome itself, the tide of wealth is threatening to submerge the city's ancient beauty in modern building.

But in this Common Market which has done so much for Italy, here is Gen. de Gaulle attempting to assert French hegemony in the Europe of the Six. Here is Gen. de Gaulle demanding an exclusive and protectionist European agricultural and trade policy. Here is Gen. de Gaulle proclaiming Europe for the Europeans, and quite probably seeking to get rid of the American military presence which is Europe's main defense.

What to do about this dinosaurish figure? That is the question every Italian leader is asking himself. As already reported, all the present leaders of the Italian government are united in believing that they must resist the General's attempt to transform the old Europe of the Six into a wholly different Gaullist Europe — although a good many are doubtful about the ultimate success of this resistance if the Germans will not join in.

The attempt to resist will be made in any case. The broad lines of the resistance can even be predicted. The struggle will begin with this spring's scheduled intra-European negotiations to complete the Common Market's common agricultural policy.

"The chances are rather good," says one of the wisest and most influentially placed Italians, "that there will be no common agricultural policy this year or even next year."

That strikes the essential note. The Italian aim, in other words, is to hang onto the Common Market as it now exists, but not to go forward in the direction being pointed by Gen. de Gaulle.

As well try to persuade a dinosaur to do the two-step, as to try to persuade Gen. de Gaulle to change his own direction. Such is the Italian opinion; and from this flows the conviction that the best thing for Europe will be to halt about where Europe now is.

Certain forward steps of a minor character are thought to be safe. For example, the association with Europe and the ex-French and ex-Belgian African states, recently halted by the Italians, will almost certainly be approved after the Italian election.

Other major forward steps are desired, if Gen. de Gaulle will agree to them. The best example is the further lowering of the Common Market's internal tariffs, which is scheduled for next July. But for the time being, the further evolution of the Common Market into a stronger, closer community is to be halted, if the Italians have their way, because they believe that in present circumstances any true evolution will end in a Gaullist Europe.

Rep. Powell Plans To Strike Back At Critics Of His Free Junketing

WASHINGTON—Adam Clayton Powell, the No. 1 "Harlem Globe-Trotter," has told colleagues that he is preparing to hit back at those who have been criticizing his trips abroad.

It can be seen, then, that the best they hope for here is far below the glowing best most Europeans hoped for before the dinosaur clumped into the cabbage patch. As for the worst, which is greatly feared, it is nothing less than the eventual break-up of the European community.

Those Italians who are closest to the problem take it for granted that Gen. de Gaulle will threaten to break up the European Common Market if he does not get his way. What they argue about is whether he will carry out his threats.

Some say he cares too much about his place in history to take the responsibility for the collapse of this Common Market that has aroused such widespread hopes. Others argue that de Gaulle thinks the Common Market has no economic value except perhaps as a benefit to French agriculture. These men reason that de Gaulle will therefore have no further use for the Common Market if it obstinately refuses to serve his political purposes.

It seems tragic that the end of the Common Market should be regarded as a serious possibility by serious and expert men, at the end of these years of glowing progress within and by the Common Market.

PRODIGAL'S RETURN — Noah Mason, a staunch conservative, returned from Congress at the end of the last session, after serving 26 years in the House of Representatives. During that time, he rose to be ranking minority member of one of the House's most important committees, Ways and Means, which initiates tax legislation.

However, apparently Mason has gotten homesick for his old environs. He quickly registered to appear as a witness before that same committee when it hears evidence on the administration's tax cut bill.

Mason always stood four-square for economy in government. He always insisted that witnesses before the Ways and Means Committee be brief and to the point. He diligently followed the practice of cutting them off whenever, in his opinion, they became too windy.

Now, his former colleagues say, they're not absolutely sure what he'll have to say about taxes, but they are sure he had better be brief!

Right Home Care Aids Arthritis Treatment

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

The success or failure of treatment for arthritis often depends upon what the victim does for himself at home. Best results are obtained when the individual obtains specific instructions on what is good and what is bad. The aims are to ease distress and prevent the number one enemy of all arthritides—deformity.

Heat is suggested and several home methods are available. But a swollen, hot, and reddened joint may be made worse by warmth which increases circulation and brings more fluid into a confined joint space. This trapped fluid adds to the pressure, causing pain, and it may damage the inflamed surfaces.

The application of ice packs may be more helpful by reducing swelling and inflammation but they should not be applied for more than 15 to 20 minutes. Stroking the area with an ice cube for 3 minutes often relieves pain.

Massage ought to be done by a qualified therapist. However, the arthritic can massage his own joints, even though the hands are involved, except when the parts are swollen and extremely tender to the touch. Massage ought to follow a pattern type of motion, going from the insertion of the muscles toward the heart. Use talcum powder when the skin is moist and an oily substance when it is dry.

But the best defense against deformity is the proper positioning of the joints during rest and active exercise. Many arthritics are greatly incapacitated because the knees have stiffened at a 90 degree angle or the fingers have been bent at odd angles. The physician should be consulted along this line because the positions to avoid are well known.

The purpose of exercise is to maintain, if possible, the functioning power of every joint in the body. This must be attempted during the initial stages of arthritis, even though it is impossible to move the joint but a fraction of an inch. Exercise daily but don't overdo it. The signs of overexertion are pain that develops during exercise and lasts for 2 hours thereafter and stiff joints the next day.

Dr. Van Dellen will send leaflet on home aids in arthritis, if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

Yes, but is not easy. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on insomnia, which gives various suggestions.

All it needs is Boris Karloff as doorman. Most of the scientific engineers work loosely; that is to say, no one says: "Go invent a new space ship," or "Find out what happens to sound in dead silence." Guil sits in a roomy office, running his hand through his hair, hoping that the whole place won't blow up — explosively or contract-wise.

Out on the airport are some of the products: the 330th 707 jet transport to be delivered to aircraft companies; the 720B, the new 3-jet 727, which is being test-flown before delivery; the military aircraft, Hollingsworth has no eye for this stuff.

He walks down a long corridor to a room where a brace of engineers has built a machine which achieves an almost pure vacuum. This simulates outer space. It looks like an octopus made of heavy gauge steel. Objects sent through it will behave exactly as objects will in the far reaches of the universe.

There is a glass tube through which a shock wave can be sent in three one-millionths of a second. It's about six feet long. After a few tests, the glass tube becomes oxydized and cannot be used again.

There are slow speed tunnels and high-speed ones too. Through one, a tiny model aircraft withstands speeds of mach 40—about 29,000 miles per hour. Guilford has all kinds of conceptions and theories. One is that men tend to think of the similarity of things; women think of the difference in things.

For example, men think of a salt shaker and a pepper shaker as one set of condiments. Women think of them as separate, and different. He used to administer adroit little mental tests to would-be scientists. One was to take the man to lunch and insist that he eat ham. Then he would be brought back and shown a big desk.

In the middle was a narrow deep well. In the bottom was a table tennis ball. Around the table were objects: a string with a piece of gum stuck on it; a set of surgical forceps; a glass of water; a knife; eyebrow tweezers; a magnetized needle; two long forks; a blow pipe.

The victim was told to select any object which would get the little ball out of the well. He had to look and think. Naturally, after so much ham for lunch, he drank the water. Ironically, this was the only item which would get the ball out of the well. Everything else was too short.

Boeing has completed its 35-foot model of Dyna-Soar, a manned space glider. It is a black object with a nose like a plane, two front windows and two small side windows, two delta wings with curled-up edges to serve as stabilizers. This object is halfway between the X-15 airplane and a true missile. When it is tested, within the next year or two, it will represent completely controlled flight in outer space.

For takeoff, it will sit on top of a Titan III missile like a paper dart. The Titan will lift it into orbit, and drop off in two stages. The pilot of Dyna-Soar will then be on his own. He will circle the earth at 17,500 miles per hour for as long as he chooses.

To steer in outer space — he can chase the moon if he pleases — he has little gas jets which will turn him in any direction, correct a list, move upward or down. If, for example, he chose to land at Edwards Air Force Base in California, the pilot would fire retro-rockets over the northern coast of Australia.

All he has to do is to slow up from 17,500 miles per hour to 17,200. At once, Dyna-Soar is moving too slowly to remain in orbit and will start to come down in a long steady glide. On the ground, radar control will give the pilot the proper heading. As Dyna-Soar hits the friction of the earth's air ocean, the ceramic nose cone will heat to 4,000 degrees of glowing gold.

The pilot will not bail out, as all astronauts have done so far. He will glide slower and slower. When he sees the airport, he will push a button and an assortment of wire brushes, mounted on skis, will emerge underneath. He will land on these, come to a stop, and step out.

If he doesn't, well, back to the drawing boards, fellas. . . .

House Enacts 'Blue Law' Bill By 65-29 Vote

Budget Approval Expected Today

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The old clock-stopping gimmick, an attempt to filibuster the controversial "blue law" to death and a variety of parliamentary maneuvers highlighted the final, confused minutes of the 56th Legislature's 60-day regular session.

The House of Delegates resorted to its old practice of stopping the official clock on the wall of the chamber to enact the blue law bill and some relatively minor measures before going into extended session to approve the 1963-64 operating budget.

House-Senate conferees met Sunday afternoon to iron out budget differences before getting together with the State Board of Public Works on some possible changes. The Legislature is expected to give quick approval to the budget and adjourn finally shortly after noon Monday.

The House of Delegates had not reverted to the old practice of stopping the clock since it was warned against the procedure by the State Supreme Court about 10 years ago.

The clock-stopping got underway when several bills—including the blue law, the teachers salary increase and the horse racing tax extension converged at the midnight deadline.

Stop Clock
The racing tax extension bill reached a stalemate in the conference committee until nearly midnight Saturday when the House conferees decided to go with the Senate version, which consisted mainly of cutting the levy back to 5% per cent for one year. The House conferees had held out for permanent continuation of the present 6 per cent levy.

Held up until the final moments of the regular session pending agreement on the racing tax—as finally approved it will bring in about $750,000 for the next fiscal year—was the bill to raise teacher salaries.

The salary bill calling for $3.6 million worth of pay raises for school teachers and the horse racing tax bill made it through just before midnight—the clock on the wall had been stopped at 11:28 p.m.—and just after midnight, the House took up the blue law bill.

Del. Bill Blankenship, D-Mingo, apparently tried to keep the blue law bill from coming to the floor by questioning Del. C. Berkley Lilly, D-Raleigh, about the conference report on the election law bill. Del. Harry R. Pauley, D-McDowell, cut him off, however, by moving successfully for a five minute recess.

Debate Limited
When the House returned, Majority Leader W. T. Brotherton Jr., D-Kanawha, moved successfully to limit debate on all questions to two minutes for each side. Then the House approved a concurrent resolution permitting the Legislature to take up after midnight Saturday and through Tuesday the budget bill and any other bill already in conference. However, the Senate declined to approve the resolution since it did not receive the message until after midnight.

Pro-blue law delegates kept the "anti" from getting the floor until the last possible moment by submitting conference reports, explaining them, moving that they be accepted and, in practically the same breath, moving "the previous question."

Del. Jack R. Nuzum, D-Randolph, was the last to take the floor before the House adjourned until noon Monday. The Senate quit at 12:40 a.m. Sunday and the House at 1:13 a.m.

Court Challenge Faces Measure

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Blue law opponents served notice Sunday they will challenge in court a Sunday closing bill passed by the Legislature early Sunday—or was it Saturday night?

The challenge will hinge on that very question—was the bill, which would put teeth in the state's ancient day-of-rest law, passed before, or after, Saturday midnight?

The House of Delegate Journal will give conflicting answers: several statements by opponents of the bill to the effect that "It is now 12:15 a.m." Or 12:14 a.m. But also statements from Speaker Julius Singleton, made at about the same time, that the House clock showed 11:28 p.m., and one by Majority Leader W. T. Brotherton that the hour was not yet midnight.

As a matter of fact, the House did not receive the final compromise version of the bill until two minutes after midnight and voted on it at 12:14 a.m. And all bills but the budget expired as soon as the clock passed midnight.

"Of course we plan to take this to court," said Fred Haddad of Madison, president of the Heck's discount store chain in Charleston, Huntington and Parkersburg.

"The test will be based on the fact that the bill was not passed in time," Haddad said.

House Enacts 'Blue Law' Bill By 65-29 Vote

Budget Approval Expected Today

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The old clock-stopping gimmick, an attempt to filibuster the controversial "blue law" to death and a variety of parliamentary maneuvers highlighted the final, confused minutes of the 56th Legislature's 60-day regular session.

The House of Delegates resorted to its old practice of stopping the official clock on the wall of the chamber to enact the blue law bill and some relatively minor measures before going into extended session to approve the 1963-64 operating budget.

House-Senate conferees met Sunday afternoon to iron out budget differences before getting together with the State Board of Public Works on some possible changes. The Legislature is expected to give quick approval to the budget and adjourn finally shortly after noon Monday.

The House of Delegates had not reverted to the old practice of stopping the clock since it was warned against the procedure by the State Supreme Court about 10 years ago.

The clock-stopping got underway when several bills—including the blue law, the teachers salary increase and the horse racing tax extension converged at the midnight deadline.

Stop Clock

The racing tax extension bill reached a stalemate in the conference committee until nearly midnight Saturday when the House conferees decided to go with the Senate version, which consisted mainly of cutting the levy back to 5 1/2 per cent for one year. The House conferees had held out for permanent continuation of the present 6 per cent levy.

Held until the final moments of the regular session pending agreement on the racing tax—as finally approved it will bring in about $750,000 for the next fiscal year—was the bill to raise teacher salaries.

The salary bill calling for $3.6 million worth of pay raises for school teachers and the horse racing tax bill made it through just before midnight—the clock on the wall had been stopped at 11:28 p.m.—and just after midnight, the House took up the blue law bill.

Del. Bill Blankenship, D-Mingo, apparently tried to keep the blue law bill from coming to the floor by questioning Del. C. Berkeley Lilly, D-Raleigh, about the conference report on the election law bill. Del. Harry R. Pauley, D-McDowell, cut him off, however, by moving successfully for a five minute recess.

Debate Limited

When the House returned, Majority Leader W. T. Brotherton Jr., D-Kanawha, moved successfully to limit debate on all questions to two minutes for each side. Then the House approved a concurrent resolution permitting the Legislature to take up after midnight Saturday and through Tuesday the budget bill and any other bill already in conference. However, the Senate declined to approve the resolution since it did not receive the message until after midnight.

Pro-blue law delegates kept the "antis" from getting the floor until the last possible moment by submitting conference reports, explaining them, moving that they be accepted and, in practically the same breath, moving "the previous question."

Del. Jack R. Nuzum, D-Randolph, was the last to take the floor before the House adjourned until noon Monday. The Senate quit at 12:40 a.m. Sunday and the House at 1:13 a.m.

Court Challenge Faces Measure

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Blue law opponents served notice Sunday they will challenge in court a Sunday closing bill passed by the Legislature early Sunday—or was it Saturday night?

The challenge will hinge on that very question—was the bill, which would put teeth in the state's ancient day-of-rest law, passed before, or after, Saturday midnight?

The House of Delegate Journal will give conflicting answers: several statements by opponents of the bill to the effect that "It is now 12:15 a.m." Or 12:14 a.m. But also statements from Speaker Julius Singleton, made at about the same time, that the House clocked showed 11:28 p.m., and one by Majority Leader W. T. Brotherton that the hour was not yet midnight.

As a matter of fact, the House did not receive the final compromise version of the bill until 20 minutes after midnight and voted on it at 12:14 a.m. And all bills but the budget expired as soon as the clock passed midnight.

"Of course we plan to take this to court," said Fred Haddad of Madison, president of the Heck's discount store chain in Charleston, Huntington and Parkersburg.

"The test will be based on the fact that the bill was not passed in time," Haddad said.

Mr. Savage Loses Class B Battle To Douglass High

Allegany High School's triumphant Campers, who returned from College Park yesterday afternoon after winning the Class A championship of the Maryland high school basketball tournament on Saturday, will be honored by the entire student body today at a victory assembly.

The Campers brought Allegany its first state championship since 1954 by easily defeating Springbrook High School of Montgomery County, 57-39, in Saturday's Class A finals at Cole Fieldhouse on the University of Maryland campus.

Allegany's victory enabled the county to bat 500 in state tournament play this year. Mt. Savage, the other Allegany County representative in the finals, lost out to Douglass High of Upper Marlboro, 66-61, in the Class B championship game on Saturday afternoon.

To Receive Letters

Today's victory celebration at Allegany will get under way at 9:20 a.m. in the school gymnasium. Highlighting the ceremonies will be the presentation of letter certificates to the squad members.

The student council at Allegany is conducting the assembly to honor the Camper players, who won five 1963 championships — WMI League, intra-city, and the county, District One and state Class A crowns. Tom Miller and Carl Belt are in charge of the program.

Miller will emcee the proceedings, which will be attended by Fred A. Hutchison, president of the Camper Club, Allegany's booster organization; Robert E. Pence, county supervisor of physical education, and members of the press and radio. The school band and cheerleaders will perform.

Representing the city will be Mrs. Lucile Roeder, street commissioner. Ralph R. Webster, superintendent of Allegany County schools, is expected to attend.

Class presidents at Allegany will deliver congratulatory messages from their respective classes, and remarks will be heard from Dr. W. Ardell Haines and Robert Hutchison, principal and vice-principal, respectively; William Faherty, athletic director; coach Chester G. Payne, and his assistant Robert Nelson.

Another brilliant team effort on Allegany's part paved the way to Saturday's championship triumph. The win was the Campers' 12th in a row, 18th in their last 19 games and gave coach Chet Payne his first 20-victory season (20-4) since assuming the coaching duties at Alco six years ago.

Miller Tallies 15
Four Allegany cagers hit in double figures, led by Larry Miller's 15 points. Mickey Robinson collected 13, Steve Vandenberg had 11 and Doug Shook came through with ten. Vandenberg, though held well below his scoring average, was a tower of strength under the boards and picked off 14 rebounds.

Springbrook's all junior team took a 15-11 lead in the first period, but Allegany went ahead at 21-20 on a field goal by Vandenberg and led the rest of the way.

The victory gave Allegany County its first Class A state title since 1958, when Bobby Cavanaugh's Fort Hill Sentinels turned the trick. Allegany advanced to Saturday's finals by upsetting highly regarded Fairmont Heights, 61-58, on Thursday.

Rally Falls Short
A late rally by the Mt. Savage Indians fell short in the Class B title game. After trailing by 16 points (54-38) at the end of the third period, the Indians pulled to within seven before losing a battle to the clock.

Bobby Robertson led Mt. Savage with 25 points on 11 field goals in 25 shots and 3-4 foul line performance. Leo Harden had 16 tallies and Ralph Wilson tossed in 13. The latter led the Indians in rebounding with 10 retrieves. Douglass' Butch Owens, one of the standouts of the three-day tourney, fired in 25 points for the Prince Georges County crew.

The Indians, who were seeking the first state championship in the school's 11-year history, wound up the season with a record of 19 wins and seven defeats.

High School League Meets To Plan 25th Baseball Campaign

A meeting of the Allegany County Interscholastic Baseball League will be held tonight at 7:30 o'clock at the library in Allegany High School for the purpose of adopting a schedule and making other plans for the 1963 season.

Flinstone High School is withdrawing from the league, reducing the number of teams to seven, namely, Allegany, Beall, Bruce, Fort Hill, LaSalle, Mt. Savage and Valley.

This will be the 25th year for the league which started operations in 1939. Beall High School was the 1962 champion.

Walter L. Bowers will preside at tonight's meeting.

Allegany Wins First County Mat Tourney

Beall Is Second Ahead Of Bruce

Not to be outdone by Allegany's state Class A basketball champions, the Camper wrestlers walked off with the title of the first annual Allegany County high school wrestling tournament Saturday at the Campobello gymnasium.

Winning the last six matches of the final round, Allegany amassed a team total of 95 points to finish well ahead of Beall with 69. Bruce was third with 66 points and Valley placed fourth with 44.

Allegany was third behind Bruce and Beall midway through the finals of Saturday night's program, but scored consecutive wins in the 138, 145, 154, 165 and 180-pound classes, and in the unlimited division.

Dave Merrill, wrestling in the unlimited class for Allegany, topped off the come-from-behind effort by pinning his opponent—Bruce's Leo Shoemaker—in 27 seconds of the first round. Merrill also scored the fastest fall in Friday's semi-finals by pinning Beall's Bob Walker in 21 seconds.

A consolation round preceded the championship matches, which were witnessed by an estimated 300 fans.

Joe Stanislawczyk, wrestling coach at Keyser High School, refereed all of the matches during the two-day affair. Ronald Chapman, of the Allegany faculty, served as tournament director.

Tournament officials tentatively selected Friday and Saturday, March 13 and 14, as the dates for next year's tourney.

WVU Meets Connecticut In NCAA Regional Today

Thorn Question Mark In Game At Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — West Virginia University will meet the University of Connecticut here Monday night in the first round play of NCAA action and the big question for the Mountaineers is Rod Thorn's knee.

Thorn injured the knee in the Southern Conference win over Davidson last Saturday. Coach George King said he probably wouldn't know whether Thorn would be able to start until game time.

Thorn is the big gun in the Mountaineer offense, averaging 21.5 points per game and is leading the team in assists with 113. New York University will meet Pitt in the opener and Princeton will take on St. Joseph's, Pa., College in the nightcap of the triple-header. Princeton defeated Yale last week for the Ivy League crown and a berth in the tournament.

Pitt and NYU both received at-large-berths in the tournament and St. Joseph's won the Mid-Atlantic Conference title.

Connecticut lost to Colgate Saturday night in the regular season windup for the UConn, who have won the Yankee Conference title 13 times in 16 seasons.

Assistant Coach Bob Lochmuller scouted Connecticut in its win over Syracuse and came away impressed with the size of the team and its rebounding strength.

Connecticut's leading scorer is 6-foot-10 Eddie Slomcenski while the leading rebounder is 6-7 Tony Kimball. Both picked off 13 rebounds in the win over Syracuse. Lochmuller said that Kimball scored several times off the fast break and also sported a deadly hook and jump shot from medium range.

West Virginia's strength so far over the tournament trail has been its bench. Outstanding subs such as Donnie Weir, Ricky Ray and Marty Lentz came off the bench to give the Mountaineers the push they needed in the tough SC tournament.

Jim McCormick is West Virginia's second leading scorer, averaging 15.4 points a game and is second in assists with 87. Mike

It marked the 26th year in which an Allegany county team had won one or more class titles in the state tournament.

Under the open class tournaments held from 1927 through 1939, Allegany county had 12 of the 13 winners. The Campers won nine times, Fort Hill, twice, and Penn Avenue once. Catonsville prevented a clean sweep by winning in 1928.

Since the teams were classified in 1947, Allegany High School has won the state Class A crown four times and Fort Hill thrice. That's seven "A" titles in 17 years for this county.

In 1949, Allegany county teams, Fort Hill, Beall and Bruce won in A, B and C while in 1950, Allegany, Central and Barton duplicated the feat.

Only three times in the past 17 years has Allegany county been shut out in state tournaments—1955, 1960 and 1962.

This was the Campers' first state championship since 1954. Fort Hill was Allegany county's last Class A victor in 1958.

FORT MYERS, Fla. (AP)—Tony Taylor's triple with two men on in the 10th inning led the Philadelphia Phillies to a 3-0 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates Sunday in the opening exhibition game for both clubs.

Taylor's triple off Bob Priddy with one out followed a walk to Bob Oldis and Bob Wine's infield single. Taylor scored on an infield out.

The Pirates threatened in the bottom of the 10th when Jack Kerrigan walked Ron Brand and Julio Gotay with one out. However, Kerrigan then got Dic Schofield to ground out and struck out Willie Stargell.

Rookie infielder Bernie Cater had three singles for the Phillies. Schofield had two infield hits.

Allegany's Class A Champs To Be Honored At Victory Assembly

Campers Beat Springbrook For State Title

Mt. Savage Loses Class B Battle To Douglass High

Allegany High School's triumphant Campers, who returned from College Park yesterday afternoon after winning the Class A championship of the Maryland high school basketball tournament on Saturday, will be honored by the entire student body today at a victory assembly.

The Campers brought Allegany its first state championship since 1954 by easily defeating Springbrook High School of Montgomery County, 57-39, in Saturday's Class A final at Cole Fieldhouse on the University of Maryland campus.

Allegany's victory enabled the county to bat 500 in state tournament play this year. Mt. Savage, the other Allegany County representative in the finals, lost out to Douglass High of Upper Marlboro, 68-61, in the Class B championship game on Saturday afternoon.

Today's victory celebration at Allegany will get under way at 9:20 a.m. in the school gymnasium. Highlighting the ceremonies will be the presentation of letter certificates to the squad members.

The student council at Allegany is conducting the assembly to honor the Camper players, who won five 1963 championships — WMI League, intra-city, and the county, District One and state Class A crowns. Tom Miller and Carl Belt are in charge of the program.

Miller will emcee the proceedings, which will be attended by Fred A. Hutchison, president of the Camper Club, Allegany's booster organization; Robert E. Pence, county supervisor of physical education, and members of the press and radio. The school band and cheerleaders will perform.

Representing the city will be Mrs. Lucile Roeder, street commissioner, Ralph R. Webster, superintendent of Allegany County schools, is expected to attend.

Class presidents at Allegany will deliver congratulatory messages from their respective classes, and remarks will be heard from Dr. W. Ardell Haines and Robert Hutchison, principal and vice-principal, respectively; William Faherty, athletic director; coach Chester G. Payne, and his assistant Robert Nelson.

Another brilliant team effort on Allegany's part paved the way to Saturday's championship triumph. The win was the Campers' 12th in a row, 18th in their last 19 games and gave coach Chet Payne his first 20-victory season (20-4) since assuming the coaching duties at Alto six years ago.

Four Allegany cagers hit in double figures, led by Larry Miller's 15 points. Mickey Robinson collected 13, Steve Vandenberg had 11 and Doug Shook came through with ten. Vandenberg, though held well below his scoring average, was a tower of strength under the boards and picked off 14 rebounds.

Springbrook's all junior team took a 15-11 lead in the first period, but Allegany went ahead at 21-20 on a field goal by Vandenberg and led the rest of the way.

The victory gave Allegany County its first Class A state title since 1958, when Bobby Cavanaugh's Fort Hill Sentinels turned the trick. Allegany advanced to Saturday's finals by upsetting highly regarded Fairmont Heights, 61-58, on Thursday.

A late rally by the Mt. Savage Indians fell short in the Class B title game. After trailing by 16 points (54-38) at the end of the third period, the Indians pulled to within seven before losing a battle to the clock.

Bobby Robertson led Mt. Savage with 25 points on 11 field goals in 25 shots and 3-4 foul line performance. Leo Hardan had 16 tallies and Ralph Wilson tossed in 13. The latter led the Indians in rebounding with 10 retrievals. Douglass' Butch Owens, one of the standouts of the three-day tournament, fired in 25 points for the Prince Georges County crew.

The Indians, who were seeking the first state championship in the school's 11-year history, wound up the season with a record of 19 wins and seven defeats.

High School League Meets To Plan 25th Baseball Campaign

A meeting of the Allegany County Interscholastic Baseball League will be held tonight at 7:30 o'clock at the library in Allegany High School for the purpose of adopting a schedule and making other plans for the 1963 season.

Allegany Wins First County Mat Tourney

Beall Is Second Ahead Of Bruce

Not to be outdone by Allegany's state Class A basketball champions, the Camper wrestlers walked off with the title of the first annual Allegany County high school wrestling tournament Saturday at the Campobello gymnasium.

Winning the last six matches of the final round, Allegany amassed a team total of 95 points to finish well ahead of Beall with 69. Bruce was third with 66 points and Valley placed fourth with 44.

Allegany was third behind Bruce and Beall midway through the finals of Saturday night's program, but scored consecutive wins in the 138, 145, 154, 165 and 180-pound classes, and in the unlimited division.

Dave Merrill, wrestling in the unlimited class for Allegany, topped off the come-from-behind effort by pinning his opponent, Bruce's Leo Shoemaker, in 27 seconds of the first round. Merrill also scored the fastest fall in Friday's semi-finals by pinning Beall's Bob Walker in 21 seconds.

A consolation round preceded the championship matches, which were witnessed by an estimated 300 fans.

Joe Stanislawczyk, wrestling coach at Keyser High School, refereed all of the matches during the two-day affair. Ronald Chapman, of the Allegany faculty, served as tournament director.

WVU Meets Connecticut In NCAA Regional Today

Thorn Question Mark In Game At Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — West Virginia University will meet the University of Connecticut here Monday night in the first round play of NCAA action and the big question for the Mountaineers is Rod Thorn's knee.

Thorn injured the knee in the Southern Conference win over Davidson last Saturday. Coach George King said he probably wouldn't know whether Thorn would be able to start until game time.

Thorn is the big gun in the Mountaineer offense, averaging 21.5 points per game and is leading the team in assists with 113. New York University will meet Pitt in the opener and Princeton will take on St. Josephs, Pa. College in the nightcap of the triple-header. Princeton defeated Yale last week for the Ivy League crown and a berth in the tournament.

Pitt and NYU both received at-large berths in the tournament and St. Josephs won the Mid-Atlantic Conference title.

Connecticut lost to Colgate Saturday night in the regular season windup for the UConn, who have won the Yankee Conference title 13 times in 16 seasons.

Assistant Coach Bob Lochmuller scouted Connecticut in its win over Syracuse and came away impressed with the size of the team and its rebounding strength.

Connecticut's leading scorer is 6-foot-10 Eddie Slomkowski, while the leading rebounder is 6-7 Tony Kimball. Both picked off 13 rebounds in the win over Syracuse.

Lochmuller said that Kimball scored several times off the fast break and also sported a deadly hook and jump shot from medium range.

West Virginia's strength so far over the tournament trail has been its bench. Outstanding subs such as Donnie Weir, Ricky Ray and Marty Lentz came off the bench to give the Mountaineers the push they needed in the tough SC tournament.

Jim McCormick is West Virginia's second leading scorer, averaging 15.4 points a game and is second in assists with 87. Mike

Charles H. Freeland, principal of Capon Bridge High School, who was elevated to the presidency of the league last November following the resignation of Dr. Wayne Hill, formerly of Beall High School, who became the principal of Fort Hill High School, will preside.

Piedmont-Tunnelton Rematched, Keyser To Play Clarksburg R-W

Thunderbirds, Lions Play At Oakland Friday

Keyser To Invade Buckhannon, Paw Paw Streak Ends

Tunnelton High School's Thunderbirds (21-1) and Piedmont High School's Lions (22-1) will clash for the second straight year for the West Virginia Area Two Class A basketball title and the right to compete in the four-team state championship event at Huntington, March 21-23.

The game is set for Friday night at 7:30 o'clock on the Southern High School court at Oakland, the same place the teams met a year ago and Tunnelton was returned the winner, 58-39.

Paw Paw Stopped
Piedmont High School won the Region 4 championship Saturday night by cracking Paw Paw High School's 23-game victory string, 49-47, to hand the Pirates their only setback of the season before a packed house at Potomac State College. It was the second straight year that Coach "Huck" Miers' Lions whipped the Buccaneers in the regional finale.

The victory was Piedmont's 22nd victory in 23 outings and extended the Lions' winning skein to 17 games.

Paw Paw led at the quarter, 15-10, and at the half-way mark, 31-28, but trailed 45-39 when the third period ended. Two foul goals by Eugene Taylor made the score 49-45 and sewed up the decision for the Lions. With 10 seconds remaining, Larry Harding's jumper enabled the Pirates to finish two points behind.

Jim Shaver and Eugene Taylor with 15 and 11 points sparked the Piedmont scoring while Roland Hamilton and Harding paced Paw Paw with 21 and 13 tallies.

Paw Paw held an 18-17 edge in field goals. Piedmont's winning margin was at the foul line where the Lions converted 15 of 23 shots to the Pirates' 11 out of 15.

Tunnelton qualified for the area contest by knocking off Newburg High School, also of Preston county, Saturday night, by the score of 71-54, in the Region 3 finale at Rowlesburg High School.

Coach "Eck" Miers' Keyser High School Golden Tornado, sparked by Terry Turbin, walloped Petersburg High School's Vikings Saturday night by the score of 67-43 in the finals of the Region 2, Section 3, Class AA tourney at Petersburg, and advanced to the Region 2 event Friday and Saturday at Buckhannon.

Keyser To Play R-W
Keyser's opponent will be Roosevelt-Wilson High School of Clarksburg and the game will be the second of a doubleheader Friday about 9 o'clock. Summersville and Belington will tangle in the opening semi-final about 7:30. The finalist goes to the state tournament.

Turbin dumped in 28 points, including 13 field goals, in Keyser's 19th victory in 23 starts. "Chuck" Nelson contributed 12 points and Tom Condron garnered 11. Johnny Kootz's 16 points was high for the Grant county quint which wound up the campaign with a 13-9 record.

Keyser limited Petersburg to 12 goals while ringing up 28 and led at the quarters, 15-9, 29-21 and 52-30.

Buildups Face Buck-Ups
Martinsburg High's Buildups, idle since February 27, play Buckhannon-Upshur High in the Region 2-AAA tourney Friday at Weston. Fairmont East and Richwood will tangle in the other semi-final tilt.

Williams Matched

MIAMI BEACH (UPI)—Heavyweight contender Cleveland Williams, fresh from Saturday's unanimous decision over Billy Daniels, was matched Sunday night for another nationally televised fight at the Philadelphia Arena, April 13, against Ernest Terrell of Chicago.

CAMPERS' CONQUERING HEROES — Four regulars from the Allegany basketball team which won the state Class A championship Saturday at College Park are shown shortly after they arrived in Cumberland yesterday afternoon. The gentleman trying to conceal his identity (second from right) is Fred Warner, popular Cresaptown restaurateur who is one of Allegany's biggest boosters. Warner is holding a sign bearing the slogan, "Shook for President." The would-be candidate, of course, is the little guy on the extreme right — Doug Shook. Other players, left to right, are Mickey Robinson, Larry Miller and Steve Vandenberg. The scene above was in front of the Allegany gymnasium, where camper followers convened after meeting the team in a caravan just east of town on Route 40. Allegany won its first state title in nine years by defeating Springbrook High School, 57-39, on Saturday in Cole Fieldhouse at College Park. The Campers finished the season with a record of 20 wins and four losses.

League-leading St. Peter and Paul yesterday rolled to its 15th straight win and eighth in a row in second half play, disposing of St. Ambrose, 52-25, on the SS. Peter and Paul court.

St. Patrick's Fighting Irish, who won the first half race and currently occupy second place in the second round standings, squeaked past St. Michael's, 35-33, at Frostburg. St. Patrick's is now 7-1, while St. Michael's dropped to 5-3.

In the other half of the doubleheader at St. Peter and Paul, St. Mary's Gaels evened their record at 500 (4-4) by whipping Mt. Savage, 61-40.

The Flying Dutchmen roared away to an 18-0 lead in the first period, after which coach Bob Mattingly substituted freely. Thirteen players dented the scoring column for the winners, with Pat McLean getting 10 points. Carl Cecil canned 13 for St. Ambrose.

Held even in field goals by St. Michael's, each with 14, the St. Patrick's cagers got their narrow margin of victory at the free throw line where they cashed in on seven of 18 chances to the Frostburg team's 5-9 effort.

Glenn Cross led the Irish in scoring with 14 points, and Ralph Hager stood out in the rebounding department. Regis Arnold of St. Michael's, who leads the CYL scoring chase, pumped in 20 points.

Bob Snyder, St. Mary's forward, took league scoring honors for the day by banging in 24 points against Mt. Savage. The latter quip was headed by Eddie Barth with 21.

Garibaldi Sparkles In Giants' Victory

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Bob Garibaldi, $150,000 bonus baby of the San Francisco Giants, won his first big-time game Sunday in a 10-7 exhibition game triumph over the Cleveland Indians.

A Cactus League crowd of 6,831 in Phoenix Municipal Stadium saw the former Santa Clara University ace go five innings in his first outing of the year. He held the Indians to four hits, one of them a solo homer by Fred Whitfield. The final hits off Garibaldi, a double and single, were sandwiched around a walk and resulted in two more runs off him.

However, a five-run second-inning spree by the Giants against Cleveland veteran Gary Bell insured Garibaldi of victory. It was something of a typical practice league slugfest during which seven homers—all of them solo shots—boomed out of the park.

Willie McCovey hit two for the Giants; Felipe Alou, one, and rookie Hal Lanier, another. In addition to Whitfield, Tito Francona and Walter Bond homered for the Indians.

Orioles Beat Yankees, 5-4

12,030 See Game, Mantle Injured

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—The New York Yankees lost Mickey Mantle for an undetermined period and also lost another exhibition game to Baltimore 5-4 Sunday before 12,030 spectators at Miami Stadium.

The world champions' $100,000 center fielder was scratched from the line-up after he pulled a groin muscle in his left thigh during a pre-game fly-shooting warmup period. While Mantle's latest in a long string of injuries is not believed serious, he will be sidelined for at least two or three days.

The Orioles, 7-4 victors Saturday in the 1963 Florida Grapefruit League inaugural at the Yanks' Fort Lauderdale spring base, gained Sunday's decision with a two-run seventh inning rally aided by an error.

Catcher Hobie Landrith's double, winning pitcher West Stock's sacrifice bunt, a single by Luis Aparicio, an advancing infield roller by Russ Snyder, Art Ditmar's wild pitch and rookie third baseman Mike Mathieson's error on Brooks Robinson's hot grounder fetched the tying and winning Baltimore runs across.

The Yankees had taken a 4-2 lead in the top of the sixth on a triple by Roger Maris, Elston Howard's double and a 39-foot homer by Hector Lopez off Dave McNally, 20-year-old rookie left-hander.

Dates And Sites For West Virginia Games This Week

Arnold Cards 273 And Earns $3,500

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — Arnold Palmer overcame a four-stroke deficit by firing a 67 Sunday for a 15-under-par 273 total to win the eighth annual $25,000 Pensacola Open Golf Tournament by two strokes.

It was his second Pensacola crown. He won here in 1960. Palmer, trailing Harold Kneee by four strokes going into the final round, passed Kneee on the eighth hole by shooting birdies on holes 1, 3, 6 and 8. He never gave up the lead.

Kneee, who tied a course record for 18 holes Saturday with a 63, slid to a one over par on the front nine and finished with par on the backside for a tournament round of 69-70-63-73—275.

Tied with Kneee for second place was Gary Player, top money winner this year on the PGA tour. Player went through the tourney with rounds of 67-72-67-69—275.

Palmer's four-day card read 69-68-69-273.

The win meant $3,500 for the Pennsylvania pro. Kneee and Player picked up $2,000.

Tommy Bolt, 1961 champion, finished alone in fourth with a 69-71-68-68—276. It earned him $1,500.

Koufax Looks Good As Dodgers Win, 4-2

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Los Angeles southpaw Sandy Koufax continued his comeback fight from a finger injury with a fine performance Sunday as the Dodgers defeated Milwaukee 4-2 with the help of a three-run fifth inning against Denny LeMaster.

Koufax allowed only two singles, one of the infield variety, in three innings. He struck out three and walked one in showing no ill effects of the injury which sidelined him the last two months of the 1962 season.

"Koufax looked real good," said Milwaukee first baseman Norm Larker, a former teammate of the fireballing left-hander. "He threw hard."

Palmer Victor At Pensacola

Arnold Cards 273 And Earns $3,500

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — Arnold Palmer overcame a four-stroke deficit by firing a 67 Sunday for a 15-under-par 273 total to win the eighth annual $25,000 Pensacola Open Golf Tournament by two strokes.

It was his second Pensacola crown. He won here in 1960. Palmer, trailing Harold Kneee by four strokes going into the final round, passed Kneee on the eighth hole by shooting birdies on holes 1, 3, 6 and 8. He never gave up the lead.

Kneee, who tied a course record for 18 holes Saturday with a 63, slid to a one over par on the front nine and finished with par on the backside for a tournament round of 69-70-63-73—275.

Tied with Kneee for second place was Gary Player, top money winner this year on the PGA tour. Player went through the tourney with rounds of 67-72-67-69—275.

Palmer's four-day card read 69-68-69-273.

The win meant $3,500 for the Pennsylvania pro. Kneee and Player picked up $2,000.

Tommy Bolt, 1961 champion, finished alone in fourth with a 69-71-68-68—276. It earned him $1,500.

Koufax Looks Good As Dodgers Win, 4-2

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Los Angeles southpaw Sandy Koufax continued his comeback fight from a finger injury with a fine performance Sunday as the Dodgers defeated Milwaukee 4-2 with the help of a three-run fifth inning against Denny LeMaster.

Koufax allowed only two singles, one of the infield variety, in three innings. He struck out three and walked one in showing no ill effects of the injury which sidelined him the last two months of the 1962 season.

Mets Win Over St. Louis, 7-5

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—The New York Mets used a five-run first inning off Ron Taylor, rookie St. Louis right-hander obtained in a winter deal with Cleveland, for a 7-5 victory over the Cardinals Sunday.

Dick Moran, Buffalo shortstop the Mets are giving a spring trial, led New York's 10-hit attack with two singles and a double. The two-base blow, following another double by Cliff Cook, came off Curt Simmons in the sixth, and furnished the margin of victory after Taylor's expense.

Dick Groat collected three of the eight hits credited to the Cardinals, who were retired in order by Jay Hook in the first three innings.

Thunderbirds, Lions Play At Oakland Friday

Keyser To Invade Buckhannon, Paw Paw Streak Ends

Tunnelton High School's Thunderbirds (21-1) and Piedmont High School's Lions (22-1) will clash for the second straight year for the West Virginia Area Two Class A basketball title and the right to compete in the four-team state championship event at Huntington, March 21-23.

The game is set for Friday night at 7:30 o'clock on the Southern High School court at Oakland, the same place the teams met a year ago and Tunnelton was returned the winner, 58-39.

Paw Paw Stopped
Piedmont High School won the Region 4 championship Saturday night by cracking Paw Paw High School's 23-game victory string, 49-47, to hand the Pirates their only setback of the season before a packed house at Potomac State College. It was the second straight year that Coach "Huck" Miers' Lions whipped the Buccaneers in the regional finale.

The victory was Piedmont's 22nd victory in 23 outings and extended the Lions' winning streak to 17 games.

Paw Paw led at the quarter, 15-10, and at the halfway mark, 31-28, but trailed 45-39 when the third period ended. Two foul goals by Eugene Taylor made the score 49-45 and sewed up the decision for the Lions. With 10 seconds remaining, Larry Harding's jumper enabled the Pirates to finish two points behind.

Jim Shaver and Eugene Taylor with 15 and 11 points sparked the Piedmont scoring while Roland Hamilton and Harding paced Paw Paw with 21 and 13 tallies.

Paw Paw held an 18-17 edge in field goals. Piedmont's winning margin was at the foul line where the Lions converted 15 of 23 shots to the Pirates' 11 out of 15.

Tunnelton qualified for the area contest by knocking off Newburg High School, also of Preston county, Saturday night, by the score of 71-54, in the Region 3 finale at Rowlesburg High School.

Coach "Eck" Miers' Keyser High School Golden Tornado, sparked by Terry Turbin, walloped Petersburg High School's Vikings Saturday night by the score of 67-43 in the finals of the Region 2, Section 3, Class AA tourney at Petersburg, and advanced to the Region 2 event Friday and Saturday at Buckhannon.

Keyser To Play R-W
Keyser's opponent will be Roosevelt-Wilson High School of Clarksburg and the game will be the second of a doubleheader Friday about 9 o'clock. Summersville and Beilington will tangle in the opening semi-final at 7:30. The finalist goes to the state tournament.

Turbin dumped in 28 points, including 13 field goals, in Keyser's 19th victory in 23 starts. "Chuck" Nelson contributed 12 points and Tom Condon garnered 11. Johnny Koonitz's 16 points was high for the Grant county quint which wound up the campaign with a 13-9 record.

Keyser limited Petersburg to 12 goals while ringing up 28 and led at the quarters, 15-9, 29-21 and 52-30.

Bulldogs Face Buck-Ups

Martinsburg High's Bulldogs, idle since February 27, play Buckhannon-Upshur High in the Region 2-AAA tourney Friday at Weston. Fairmont East and Richwood will tangle in the other semi-final tilt.

Charter Study Commission Will Be Urged Here

Hill, Mrs. Roeder To Push Project

Two city commissioners are planning to insist on the appointment of a charter commission as soon as the fluoridation issue is settled.

Action on the charter proposal will be pushed by Finance Commissioner Frederick J. Hill and Street Commissioner Lucile Roeder.

Mr. Hill pointed out, at a recent conference in City Hall that the City of Cumberland is in violation of a resolution adopted unanimously by the last administration and calling for the appointment of a Cumberland Charter Commission.

He said the resolution obligated city officials to set up, before July 1, 1962, a nine-member charter commission to study and make recommendations on the form of government it recommends for the City of Cumberland.

Mr. Hill said the resolution obligates the commission to make its report on or before July 1, 1963.

At a meeting of the Mayor and Council December 3, Mrs. Roeder pointed out that at least three members of the present council have gone on record as favoring a city manager type of government, a plan which was defeated by a margin of 112 votes in the last city election.

Mrs. Roeder said efforts will be made to submit an entire new charter for the city rather than to amend the charter, as was proposed last June.

The resolution on which Mr. Hill will try to force action points out that no complete study of the charter has been made since a report of the Cumberland Charter Commission was submitted and defeated 2,678 to 2,624 in a June 7, 1949, special election.

Protection Area To Act On Fire Tax

Citizens in areas served by the LaVale Volunteer Fire Company will get a chance to vote this year on the proposal for a LaVale fire tax.

The bill is being sponsored by Delegates Fred H. Anderson, J. Glenn Beall Jr., Noel Speir Cook and David J. Williams and is subject to a referendum on or about September 17, according to Del. Charles M. See, chairman, who said it is not a delegation measure.

He said the bill sent to Annapolis by Leslie J. Clark, attorney, provides that only that part of District 29 which is served by the fire company will be eligible to vote, and that the eligible list includes those in Districts 5 and 6 who depend upon the LaVale firemen for fire protection.

Del. Williams, vice chairman of the delegation, has written to the Board of Education for information on Joint Resolution 45, introduced by the delegation, which asks the Board of Education to provide for the construction of a fire hydrant on the property of Northeast School.

Del. See said a reply is expected by Wednesday, when the delegation will meet as a body to discuss legislative matters.

International Study Banquet Set At College

An International Conference banquet, jointly sponsored by the International Relations Club of Frostburg State Teachers College and the international relations study group of Frostburg-Georges Creek AAUW, will be held Saturday, March 23, at 7 p. m. at Gunter Hall dining room at the college.

"Image of America" is the title for this year's banquet, and Dr. Syed Hasan, psychology instructor at the college, will be the speaker.

Last year, an American professor gave his impressions of his "Image of U.S.S.R.," based on education, health and welfare. This year the sponsors decided to present a college professor born abroad to give his impression of the "Image of America."

Dr. Hasan received his B.A. degree from Jamia University, New Delhi, India, and his M.S. and Ph.D. from Southern Illinois University in this country.

All three AAUW groups in Western Maryland expect to have a large number of members attend the banquet conference. Mrs. Howard Tolson is president of the Cumberland club, Mrs. Kenneth Johns, Oakland, and Mrs. Donald Butts, Frostburg-Georges Creek group.

The event is open to the public. Persons wishing to attend the banquet should obtain tickets by Thursday. Those unable to attend the banquet may attend the program which follows.

Tickets are available from any member of the International Relations Club at the college. Miss Joan Williams is president and Miss Marie Amarian is vice president. Both reside at Frost Hall on campus. Tickets also may be obtained from Dr. Hazel G. Ramsey or Dr. Howard L. Briggs, or chairman of Frostburg-Georges Creek international relations study group.

Thoroughfare Plan Includes New Bridges

Collector System Listed In Report

One of the important elements of the proposed Thoroughfare Plan for the City of Cumberland is a system of collector streets which would allow residents to get from one neighborhood to another.

The plan for this segment of the street plan, as proposed by Blair and Stein Associates and approved for study and review by the Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission, includes three bridges.

The formal report has this to say about the system of collector streets:

Collector streets in Cumberland are important to the local circulation system. These will be streets by which residents will get from one neighborhood to another and by which they will gain access to the arterials.

Major Proposals

Generally, existing streets have been used. Often adjustments in alignment will be necessary to provide continuity. Although the desirable minimum right-of-way width is 60 feet for collectors, existing conditions of topography and development often makes this impractical. In those cases, the removal of parking from the street may give the added freedom necessary for it to be utilized as a collector.

There are three proposals in the collector street system which will require major construction. The first and more important is the construction of a bridge over the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad line at Lee Street. The railroad is adequately depressed so that a bridge connecting the two portions of Lee would be relatively feasible. This connection would make access from north Cumberland to the Thruway and west Cumberland more efficient.

Table Included

The second is another bridge to provide a second means of access to the portion of south Cumberland below the railroad yards. The bridge would take off from the Industrial Boulevard in the vicinity of Third and Fourth streets, across the tracks remaining generally parallel to the canal and tie into Offutt Street.

The third would be an extension of Virginia Avenue south over a new bridge across the Potomac River to tie into West Virginia 28. The present bridge is in poor condition and extremely narrow.

A table has been prepared showing existing and proposed rights-of-way and pavement widths. Comments have also been included to indicate where realignments are necessary, where parking should be removed, or where particular problems prevent improvements.

Local Streets

Local streets provide the greatest mileage in the street system. While not a direct part of the major thoroughfare system it is important that adequate design standards are met, that all through traffic is discouraged, and that proper access from them can be gained to the collectors.

Design standards for new local streets are included as part of subdivision regulations. The most desirable right-of-way width is 50 feet with a 36 foot roadway width.

Eagles Honor Dead; Delegate Asks Dedication

200 Hear Address By F. H. Anderson

Rededication to America's basic freedoms and to the principles of the Fraternal Order of Eagles was urged yesterday by Del. Fred H. Anderson at the annual memorial service of Cumberland Aerie 245, F.O.E.

Mr. Anderson, himself a member of the local aerie, told the 200 persons attending that the principles of liberty, truth, justice and equality "are even now threatened by the merchants of hate, dishonesty, deceit, injustice and selfish pride."

"The Russian dictator openly seeks to destroy our free democratic society and constantly probes our every weakness. Consider also the bias, selfishness and hate which motivates many of those in our own society who would limit or destroy the right of each of us to live in freedom and without unjust restriction to achieve to the limit of our talents and goals."

Mr. Anderson also praised past and present endeavors of the Fraternal Order of Eagles. "The Eagles actively supported and promoted the workmen's compensation laws of this state, the mothers' pension law, the first old age pension law, as well as the Social Security laws."

He said the order has fought "the cancer of Communism" and the physical disease of cancer, and now is actively promoting the right of persons 45 and older to be employed in jobs that make full use of their ability and experience.

The Eagles were paying tribute yesterday to 36 members who died during 1962, and to all deceased Eagles.

A procession played by Miss Carol Reith opened the program. Rev. Frank G. Wanek gave the invocation, after which the Allegheny High School Choir directed by Miss Dorothy Willison sang.

Donald McClellan Sr., worthy president of the aerie, was in charge of the lodge ritual, assisted by Elmer C. Lashley, chaplain, and William T. Damm, junior past worthy president.

Victory Over Suffering To Be Celebrated Tonight

The real victory to be celebrated at the Sacred Heart Hospital Victory Dinner tonight at 6:30 at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club, according to Lewis J. Ort, general chairman of the hospital building program, "is victory over suffering and disease — and the celebration will go on for years to come."

Victory Over Suffering To Be Celebrated Tonight

"It is obvious from the on-going nature of this campaign that it will never end," the chairman declared. "There will be extra monies available from this campaign — and from gifts that will keep on flowing into this great Citadel of Mercy — that already assure us of having extra facilities and equipment that will make the new Sacred Heart the equal of any modern metropolitan hospital in the world."

Referring to a talk to campaign leaders by John J. McMullen, co-chairman of the Industrial Division of the drive, Mr. Ort said:

"As Mr. McMullen so eloquently expressed it, history will be built into this great edifice; perpetual memorials will be established to keep alive the names of today's outstanding citizens down through the years."

He said Mr. McMullen had noted with regret that many of the old names that had brought mighty industries here, built magnificent churches, and otherwise contributed to the development of the area are now forgotten.

"This entire hospital," the chairman stated, "will be a monument to the generosity of the great people of the Tri-State area. Again they have demonstrated in the most resounding fashion, that they know how to take care of their own."

Most Rev. Fulton J. Sheen, DD., world renowned philosopher, author, educator and preacher, the principal speaker at tonight's dinner, will arrive at the Cumberland Airport from New York late this afternoon in Mr. Ort's private plane.

The noted churchman, auxiliary bishop of New York and national director of the Society for the Propagation of the Faith, will be met at the airport by Mr. Ort, a personal friend of long standing, and William C. Walsh, associate general chairman of the campaign. Mr. McMullen, the co-chairman of the Industrial Division of the drive and president of the Times & Alleganian Company, also will be on hand to greet the bishop, as will Thomas B. Finan, Jr., attorney general of Maryland, who is chairman of the Sacred Heart Advisory Board and co-chairman of the Healing & Mercy Division of the new-hospital campaign.

Also arriving today are Rev. Seth C. Morrow, D.D., senior minister of First Presbyterian Church, Lansing, Mich., and Lt. Col. Paul S. Thronburg, commander of the Maryland and Northern West Virginia Division of the Salvation Army. All three of the prominent churchmen will play important parts in tonight's victory dinner.

The new auditorium of the expanded and modernized Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club, one of the showpieces of Western Maryland, will be filled to capacity. Dignitaries, campaign leaders and their wives, and Sisters of Charity, will occupy two head tables on the auditorium stage.

More than 600 campaign workers and givers will occupy every nook and cranny of the big room. The hundreds of interested persons of the area who were unable to get tickets will be able to hear the proceedings through the public-service facilities of Radio Stations WTBO and WCUM.

Victory Over Suffering To Be Celebrated Tonight

"It is obvious from the on-going nature of this campaign that it will never end," the chairman declared. "There will be extra monies available from this campaign — and from gifts that will keep on flowing into this great Citadel of Mercy — that already assure us of having extra facilities and equipment that will make the new Sacred Heart the equal of any modern metropolitan hospital in the world."

Referring to a talk to campaign leaders by John J. McMullen, co-chairman of the Industrial Division of the drive, Mr. Ort said:

"As Mr. McMullen so eloquently expressed it, history will be built into this great edifice; perpetual memorials will be established to keep alive the names of today's outstanding citizens down through the years."

Charter Study Commission Will Be Urged Here

Hill, Mrs. Roeder To Push Project

Two city commissioners are planning to insist on the appointment of a charter commission as soon as the fluoridation issue is settled. Action on the charter proposal will be pushed by Finance Commissioner Frederick J. Hill and Street Commissioner Lucile Roeder. Mr. Hill pointed out, at a recent conference in City Hall that the City of Cumberland is in violation of a resolution adopted unanimously by the last administration and calling for the appointment of a Cumberland Charter Commission. He said the resolution obligated city officials to set up, before July 1, 1962, a nine-member charter commission to study and make recommendations on the form of government it recommends for the City of Cumberland. Mr. Hill said the resolution obligates the commission to make its report on or before July 1, 1963. At a meeting of the Mayor and Council December 3, Mrs. Roeder pointed out that at least three members of the present council have gone on record as favoring a city manager type of government, a plan which was defeated by a margin of 112 votes in the last city election. Mrs. Roeder said efforts will be made to submit an entire new charter for the city rather than to amend the charter, as was proposed last June. The resolution on which Mr. Hill will try to force action points out that no complete study of the charter has been made since a report of the Cumberland Charter Commission was submitted and defeated 2,678 to 2,624 in a June 7, 1949, special election.

Protection Area To Act On Fire Tax

Citizens in areas served by the LaVale Volunteer Fire Company will get a chance to vote this year on the proposal for a LaVale fire tax. The bill is being sponsored by Delegates Fred H. Anderson, J. Glenn Beall Jr., Noel Speir Cook and David J. Williams and is subject to a referendum on or about September 17, according to Del. Charles M. See, chairman, who said it is not a delegation measure. He said the bill sent to Annapolis by Leslie J. Clark, attorney, provides that only that part of District 29 which is served by the fire company will be eligible to vote, and that the eligible list includes those in Districts 5 and 6 who depend upon the LaVale firemen for fire protection. Del. Williams, vice chairman of the delegation, has written to the Board of Education for information on Joint Resolution 45, introduced by the delegation, which asks the Board of Education to provide for the construction of a fire hydrant on the property of Northeast School. Del. See said a reply is expected by Wednesday, when the delegation will meet as a body to discuss legislative matters.

International Study Banquet Set At College

An International Conference banquet, jointly sponsored by the International Relations Club of Frostburg State Teachers College and the international relations study group of Frostburg-Georges Creek AAUW, will be held Saturday, March 23, at 7 p. m. at Gunter Hall dining room at the college. "Image of America" is the title for this year's banquet, and Dr. Syed Hasan, psychology instructor at the college, will be the speaker. Last year, an American professor gave his impressions of his "Image of U.S.S.R.," based on education, health and welfare. This year the sponsors decided to present a college professor born abroad to give his impression of the "Image of America."

Dr. Hasan received his B.A. degree from Jamia University, New Delhi, India, and his M.S. and Ph. D. from Southern Illinois University in this country. All three AAUW groups in Western Maryland expect to have a large number of members attend the banquet conference. Mrs. Howard Tolson is president of the Cumberland club, Mrs. Kenneth Johns, Oakland, and Mrs. Donald Butts, Frostburg-Georges Creek group.

The event is open to the public. Persons wishing to attend the banquet should obtain tickets by Thursday. Those unable to attend the banquet may attend the program which follows. Tickets are available from any member of the International Relations Club at the college. Miss Joan Williams is president and Miss Marie Amarian is vice president. Both reside at Frost Hall on campus. Tickets also may be obtained from Dr. Hazel G. Ramsey or Dr. Howard L. Briggs, or chairman of Frostburg-Georges Creek international relations study group.

Thoroughfare Plan Includes New Bridges

Collector System Listed In Report

One of the important elements of the proposed Thoroughfare Plan for the City of Cumberland is a system of collector streets which would allow residents to get from one neighborhood to another. The plan for this segment of the street plan, as proposed by Blair and Stein Associates and approved for study and review by the Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission, includes three bridges. The formal report has this to say about the system of collector streets: Collector streets in Cumberland are important to the local circulation system. These will be streets by which residents will get from one neighborhood to another and by which they will gain access to the arterials. Major Proposals Generally, existing streets have been used. Often adjustments in alignment will be necessary to provide continuity. Although the desirable minimum right-of-way width is 60 feet for collectors, existing conditions of topography and development often makes this impractical. In those cases, the removal of parking from the street may give the added freedom necessary for it to be utilized as a collector.

There are three proposals in the collector street system which will require major construction. The first and more important is the construction of a bridge over the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad line at Lee Street. The railroad is adequately depressed so that a bridge connecting the two portions of Lee would be relatively feasible. This connection would make access from north Cumberland to the Thruway and west Cumberland more efficient. The second is another bridge to provide a second means of access to the portion of south Cumberland below the railroad yards. The bridge would take off from the Industrial Boulevard in the vicinity of Third and Fourth streets, across the tracks remaining generally parallel to the canal and tie into Offutt Street.

The third would be an extension of Virginia Avenue south over a new bridge across the Potomac River to tie into West Virginia 28. The present bridge is in poor condition and extremely narrow. A table has been prepared showing existing and proposed rights-of-way and pavement widths. Comments have also been included to indicate where realignments are necessary, where parking should be removed, or where particular problems prevent improvements.

Local Streets Local streets provide the greatest mileage in the street system. While not a direct part of the major thoroughfare system it is important that adequate design standards are met, that all through traffic is discouraged, and that proper access from them can be gained to the collectors. Design standards for new local streets are included as part of subdivision regulations. The most desirable right-of-way width is 50 feet with a 36 foot roadway width.

A processionary played by Miss Carol Reith opened the program. Rev. Frank G. Wanek gave the invocation, after which the Allegheny High School Choir directed by Miss Dorothy Willison sang. Donald McClellan Sr., worthy president of the aerie, was in charge of the lodge ritual, assisted by Elmer C. Lashley, chaplain, and William T. Damm, junior past worthy president. Herman L. Myers, secretary. (Continued On Page 3)

Eagles Honor Dead; Delegate Asks Dedication

200 Hear Address By F. H. Anderson

Rededication to America's basic freedoms and to the principles of the Fraternal Order of Eagles was urged yesterday by Del. Fred H. Anderson at the annual memorial service of Cumberland Aerie 245, FOE.

Mr. Anderson, himself a member of the local aerie, told the 200 persons attending that the principles of liberty, truth, justice and equality "are even now threatened by the merchants of hate, dishonesty, deceit, injustice and selfish pride." The Russian dictator openly seeks to destroy our free democratic society and constantly probes our every weakness. Consider also the bias, selfishness and hate which motivates many of those in our own society who would limit or destroy the right of each of us to live in freedom and without unjust restriction to achieve to the limit of our talents and goals.

Mr. Anderson also praised past and present endeavors of the Fraternal Order of Eagles. "The Eagles actively supported and promoted the workmen's compensation laws of this state, the mothers' pension law, the first old age pension law, as well as the Social Security laws."

He said the order has fought "the cancer of Communism" and the physical disease of cancer, and now is actively promoting the right of persons 45 and older to be employed in jobs that make full use of their ability and experience.

The Eagles were paying tribute yesterday to 36 members who died during 1962, and to all deceased Eagles.

A processionary played by Miss Carol Reith opened the program. Rev. Frank G. Wanek gave the invocation, after which the Allegheny High School Choir directed by Miss Dorothy Willison sang. Donald McClellan Sr., worthy president of the aerie, was in charge of the lodge ritual, assisted by Elmer C. Lashley, chaplain, and William T. Damm, junior past worthy president. Herman L. Victory Over Suffering To Be Celebrated Tonight

The real victory to be celebrated at the Sacred Heart Hospital Victory Dinner tonight at 6:30 at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club, according to Lewis J. Ort, general chairman of the hospital building program, "is victory over suffering and disease — and the celebration will go on for years to come."

"It is obvious from the on-going nature of this campaign that it will never end," the chairman declared. "There will be extra monies available from this campaign — and from gifts that will keep on flowing into this great Citadel of Mercy — that already assure us of having extra facilities and equipment that will make the new Sacred Heart the equal of any modern metropolitan hospital in the world."

Referring to a talk to campaign leaders by John J. McMullen, co-chairman of the Industrial Division of the drive, Mr. Ort said: "As Mr. McMullen so eloquently expressed it, history will be built into this great edifice; perpetual memorials will be established to keep alive the names of today's outstanding citizens down through the years."

He said Mr. McMullen had noted with regret that many of the old names that had brought mighty industries here, built magnificent churches, and otherwise contributed to the development of the area are now forgotten. "This entire hospital," the chairman stated, "will be a monument to the generosity of the great people of the Tri-State area. Again they have demonstrated in the most resounding fashion, that they know how to take care of their own."

Most Rev. Fulton J. Sheen, D.D., world renowned philosopher, author, educator and preacher, the principal speaker at tonight's dinner, will arrive at the Cumberland Airport from New York late this afternoon in Mr. Ort's private plane.

The noted churchman, auxiliary bishop of New York and national director of the Society for the Propagation of the Faith, will be met at the airport by Mr. Ort, a personal friend of long standing, and William C. Walsh, associate general chairman of the campaign. Mr. McMullen, the co-chairman of the drive and president of the Times & Alleghenian Company, also will be on hand to greet the bishop, as will Thomas B. Finan, Jr., attorney general of Maryland, who is chairman of the Sacred Heart Advisory Board and co-chairman of the new-hospital campaign.

Also arriving today are Rev. Seth C. Morrow, D.D., senior minister of First Presbyterian Church, Lansing, Mich., and Lt. Col. Paul S. Thronburg, commander of the Maryland and Northern West Virginia Division of the Salvation Army. All three of the prominent churchmen will play important parts in tonight's victory dinner. The new auditorium of the expanded and modernized Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club, one of the showplaces of Western Maryland, will be filled to capacity. Dignitaries, campaign leaders and their wives, and Sisters of Charity, will occupy two head tables on the auditorium stage. More than 600 campaign workers and givers will occupy every nook and cranny of the big room. The hundreds of interested persons of the area who were unable to get tickets will be able to hear the proceedings through the public-service facilities of Radio Stations WTBO and WCUM.

How To Protect Your Child From Poisoning

To stem the rising tide of accidental poisoning of small children, Allegheny County Chapter, American Red Cross, urged parents to take the utmost precautions to keep poisonous substances beyond their children's reach. The Red Cross is one of 21 member-organizations of the National Planning Council for National Poison Prevention Week, proclaimed by President Kennedy for the week beginning March 17. According to council estimates, there are 500,000 accidental poisonings a year among children five years old and younger. Proper safeguards by parents could have prevented most of these accidents, of which some 500 were fatal. Prevention and emergency care of poison victims is taught in all Red Cross first aid courses. Persons interested in enrolling in one of these courses may do so by calling the local chapter office PA 2-1760. The Red Cross recommends six measures to prevent small children from swallowing household items which are poisonous. They include: Lock up drugs, insecticides, detergents, and cleaning materials, or store them well beyond children's reach. Return dangerous items to customary storage places immediately after using. Keep harmful household items in original containers. Don't take medicines in presence of small children. In administering medicines to children, refer to them as "medicine," not "candy." When illness for which medicine was prescribed is over, dispose of remaining medicine by flushing down the drain, and rinse the container thoroughly before discarding.

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—The Maryland Legislature begins hammering out this week what may become the state's first law requiring equal service for Negroes in hotels and restaurants. Decisions also are due in either the House or Senate on such controversial topics as outlawing slot machines, proposed regulation of credit charges on retail sales, and whether to let major tracks expand their horse racing programs. The Tawes administration is backing all of these proposals which are still in the legislative works as the General Assembly begins the final three weeks of its 90-day session. A House-Senate deadlock on public accommodations legislation is expected to develop Monday night as soon as the legislature returns from its weekend recess. Strong intervention by the administration may be required before it is straightened out. Amendments Issue The House is expected to reject Senate amendments to the bill, which now applies only to Baltimore City and 12 counties, and this will throw the measure into a conference committee of the two houses. Among the chief issues are Senate-approved changes which permit Carroll County voters to decide for the other counties involved, and one which adds Anne Arundel to the bill after House exemption. The Anne Arundel House delegation is reported split on Sen. Joseph W. Alton Jr.'s preference for the bill to apply to the county and the outcome remains very much in doubt. As it is now drawn, the bill applies without controversy only to Baltimore City and Allegany, Baltimore, Harford, Cecil, Charles, Howard, Frederick, Montgomery, Prince Georges and Washington counties. Other Senate amendments restrict procedures under which the State Interracial Commission may administer the act. While the administration is going along with the principle of local option on the public accommodations measure, it is applying an opposite line of reasoning to the statewide slot machine ban which would affect only four southern Maryland counties. The House upheld the governor 93-29 last week on an attempt by the counties to exclude themselves and is expected to pass the bill to the Senate this week. Racial Bill To Be Aired The Senate faces its first debate on the horse racing bill, which would allow 12 more days each for the Pimlico, Laurel, Bowie and Timonium tracks. Three harness tracks were granted seven more days as a compromise, but the measure still faces considerable opposition. A Senate committee takes a second look Monday at a bill to regulate charges on retail installment sales and revolving credit accounts at department stores and mail order houses. Merchants will be asked to agree to a charge of 1 per cent per month interest on revolving accounts, instead of the proposed 1 1/2 per cent, if they want to save the bill. Featuring a long list of public hearings for the week is the request by school teachers for state aid to education to be based on the number of pupils in each subdivision instead of the present outdated system of a minimum salary program for teachers. This will be aired Wednesday at a joint hearing by Senate and House Fiscal committees. The exchange would cost an estimated $14 million more next fiscal year, and Gov. Tawes announced Saturday he is flatly opposed to it at this time.
